PLAN TO TRIM GOVERNMENT IN OHIO REJECTED

Proposal To Centralize State Government Not What Commission Ordered.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10—A Chicago consultant firm's ambitious plan for revamping Ohio's state government was not accepted today and State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson stopped payment of checks for the work.

The Public Administration Service of Chicago, hired by the Ohio salary study commission, had proposed centralization of the government, abolition of three elective offices and elimination of numerous departments and commissions.

The study commission members said they ordered a report on overstaffing and understaffing of state offices, not a reorganization plan.

Auditor Ferguson, stopping payment of $14,277 in checks issued to the firm, said he also would withhold payment of an additional $10,600 claimed by the company.

"This company," he said in a formal statement, "has only proved how dumb they are by making such a report. In my opinion it was wrong in the first place to hire these so-called efficiency experts at a cost to the taxpayers of Ohio of $70,000."

Survey Proposals

The plan proposed elimination of the elective offices of secretary of state, attorney general and treasurer. The state auditor's duties would be chopped down and numerous state departments and commissions eliminated.

Their duties would be concentrated in a department of administration headed by a director appointed by the governor who would serve four years instead of two.

The plan was drafted by the Public Administration Service of Chicago, a private outfit hired by the study commission to conduct salary and personnel studies.

Commission members said it wasn't what they ordered. They wanted instead a report on overstaffing and understaffing of state offices. A sub-committee will report on the proposal to the commission Dec. 29.

Commission Chairman C. William O'Neill, speaker of the house of representatives, said the subcommittee will decide by then whether a supplemental report along the lines requested will be demanded.

Accepted Salary Survey

The commission accepted a previous salary and personnel survey by the Chicago firm. It recommended an overall 7.8 per cent pay increase for state employes costing about $4,900,000.

The legislature appropriated $70,000 for the surveys. They will cost about $65,000. Commission recommendations based on them will be submitted to the legislature convening Jan. 3 and to the governor.

The government reorganization "surprise package" was aimed at economy for Ohioans, said H. G. Pope, executive director of the survey service. He said Ohio spends more than $265,000,000 yearly to run the state government. Its 35,000 employes and extensive operations make it bigger than most corporations, he added.

"Analysis of the present structure of the Ohio state government indicated that it is probably above average among the several states," Pope said.

Some of the proposed governmental changes would require revision of the state constitution. Those proposals would be placed on election ballots for voters to say whether they should be carried out.

The new department of administration would have six divisions. They would be headed by chiefs appointed by the director who is responsible to the governor.

Eliminate Commissions

Thrown out would be the civil commission, department of finance, public works, postwar program commission and the publicity and development commission. Their functions would be taken over by the administration director.

The administration department would take over central accounting duties, leaving the state auditor only post-auditing functions.

A new department of labor would be set up. It would assimilate the industrial commission, department of industrial relations, and bureau of unemployment compensation principally.

Three executive departments would conduct welfare activities which the survey said take about 40 per cent of the state's controllable expenditures.

A mental health department would expand local services, modernize state hospitals and speed admission and treatment of patients.

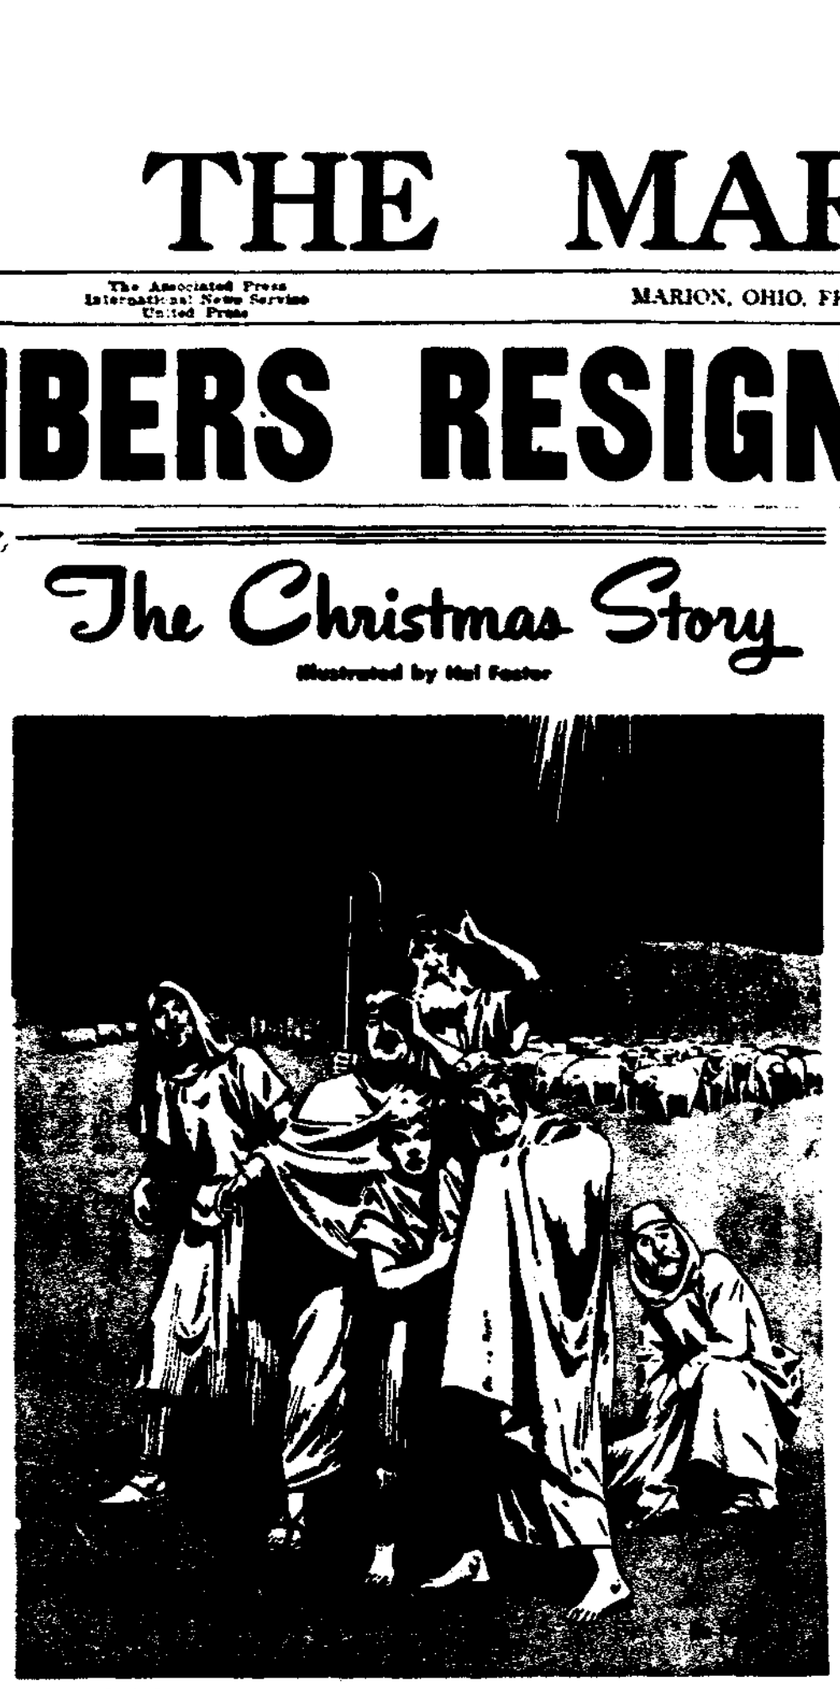
The Christmas Story

Illustrated by Hal Foster



THE GREAT THRONG that had come to Bethlehem to register filled every shelter. But Joseph found a place for Mary in the manger of the cattle shed, for the number of her days had passed, her time was at hand.

And now THE STAR blazed forth in such splendor that the shepherds drew together in wonder. Faintly at first but growing in volume they heard angels' voices chanting:

"Peace on earth, good will toward men. The Savior is born today."

EDGAR BERGEN TO QUIT RADIO

Sunday "Sock Sequence" of NBC Loses More Punch; Harris Next?

By The United Press

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10—NBC's "sock sequence" of Sunday night shows lost more punch today with Edgar Bergen's announcement that he and Charlie McCarthy are quitting radio until it and television figure out which way they're going.

The country's top ventriloquist said he's retiring those irrepressible hunks of wood—the pink-cheeked Charlie and the bug-eyed Mortimer Snerd—after their Dec. 26 show.

"Everything's in chaos," he said. "This is a good time to step back and get a perspective."

With Bergen folding up things are getting lonesomer and lonesomer around the National Broadcasting Company's huge green building.

The "great exodus" started two months ago when the rival CBS dangled $2,000,000 under the noses of "Amos and Andy" and lured them away.

Two weeks ago they added Jack Benny to their list of prize catches.

Fred Allen, Too

The ink hadn't dried on that contract before Fred Allen told the world he was quitting NBC next year, too.

"To look over television and rest," he said.

It looks now like Al Jolson's next on the list. The rejuvenated "Mammy" singer says he's about ready to retire again and spend his leisure hours counting his millions.

This may not be the end. The Denis Day show and the Phil Harris-Alice Faye program are handled by Amusement Enterprises, Inc., which is controlled by Benny. The word along "radio row" is they'll be switching to CBS before long.

The network war is out in the open now—and going strong.

"Everything's all mixed up," Bergen said, "with the networks switching stars like this and everybody wondering about television.

Kent Senior Awarded Maish Scholarship

A New Philadelphia girl and senior in journalism at Kent State university is the first student to receive the Jay H. Maish scholarship established this year by the Jay H. Maish Advertising agency here, it was announced today by the university's news bureau. She is Miss Gloria Sherrets, daughter of Mrs. Emma Sherrets of New Philadelphia.

The scholarship, which consists of tuition and a monthly stipend, is available yearly to exceptional men and women students of junior or senior standing in fields of advertising, photography, commercial art, journalism and related subjects. It has been set up by the Maish company with the aim of aiding talented students who otherwise might not finish their training.

Described as an outstanding student by members of the faculty Miss Sherrets is president of Lambda Chi, women's journalism honorary, a member of the a cappella choir, Booster club, Independent Students association, staff member of the Daily Kent State and student faculty publication policy committee. She was graduated from New Philadelphia High school in 1943 where she edited the school paper and served on the annual staff. Her other activities included membership in the honor club, choir, Girl Reserves and German club.

George A. Bowman, former superintendent of the Marion public schools, is president of the university.

"While this is an all-university scholarship," Professor William D. Taylor, chairman of the Kent State university school of journalism explains, "many of our journalism students will, in the natural course of events, qualify for it through the years." He said this generous scholarship would now make it possible for many worthy students to finish their training. "We are all very happy," he added, "that the committee selected Miss Sherrets as the first recipient of the award. She has always been one of our outstanding students."

"HUNCH" LEADS TO CAPTURE OF BANDIT

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10 — A "bunch" by two motorcycle patrolmen today led to the arrest of one of the two "bantam bandits" wanted here on kidnaping and armed robbery charges. One of the other man sought since Saturday.

Raymond L. Grambo, 29, of Columbus, was arrested at a trailer-house by motorcycle officers Carl D. Barth and Robert B. Baus, who said they "were playing a hunch." There was no sign, however, of Grambo's companion, Jack D. Fleming, 24, also of Columbus.

Grambo, previously described as armed and desperate, was not armed and offered no resistance upon his arrest.

The kidnaping charges were filed against the pair in connection with the abduction of two teen-aged girls here last Saturday, while the armed robbery charges were filed in connection with the hold-up of Dr. and Mrs. George M. Curtis in their suburban Bexley home Monday night.

BROTHERHOODS SEEK REVISION OF RAIL ACT

Set Up Committee To Study Possible Changes in 20-Year-Old Law.

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—Rail union leaders indicated today that the new Democratic-controlled congress may also be asked to revise the Railway Labor act in addition to repealing the Taft-Hartley law.

Brotherhood chiefs representing one and a half million railroad workers decided at a meeting in Washington to set up a special committee to study possible changes in the act which has governed industrial relations on the railroads for two decades.

Arthur E. Lyon, executive secretary of the Railway Labor Executives association, said the rail unions have "no specific proposals" to make yet and the special study committee will not report before mid-February.

Mr. Lyon hinted strongly, however, that the rail brotherhoods may seek an amendment to the railway labor statute to permit union shop contracts with the nation's carriers. Such union security measures are banned at present just as the Taft-Hartley law prohibits the closed shop.

Exempt from Taft-Hartley

The rail unions are exempt from coverage of the Taft-Hartley act.

Another matter of major concern to the railroad brotherhoods is the question of speeding up the handling of cases by the railroad adjustment board. One division of that board now has a backlog of 2,500 cases from five operating unions which represents nearly four years work.

It may be possible, however, to set up an auxiliary panel of the board to reduce this backlog without new legislation. Chiefs of the five operating brotherhoods will meet in Chicago Dec. 16 with a carriers committee to consider the problem.

Mr. Lyon emphasized that the rail unions would resist any attempt to alter the emergency board procedure now contained in the railway labor act for handling strike-threatening disputes.

Under this system, the president appoints emergency boards to investigate and make recommendations for settlement. This action delays a strike for at least 60 days although neither party is bound to accept the board's recommendations.

Mr. Lyon termed the railway labor act's machinery "the best thing that has ever been worked out," despite the fact that in recent years there has been one 48-hour rail tie-up and another near-national strike.

The railroad brotherhoods also decided at the session to continue the railway political league on a permanent basis. An eight-man committee was named to study any necessary revisions in operating procedure and finances.

NEW RATES INCREASE INCOME BY $381,415

Telephone Co. Lists Boosts in Charges in Ohio Communities.

The Ohio Associated Telephone Co. would receive an additional $381,415 yearly under its proposed rate increase schedule, filed yesterday with the state utilities commission. The Associated Press reported today from Columbus.

In its application the company did not break down the proposed increase into individual bills.

Associated has seven district operating headquarters. The yearly income under present rates, the proposed rates, and the net increase by districts follow:

Brookyville $266,421, $299,496; $3,075; Bryan $284,586, $318,828, $34,242; Caldwell $53,838, $66,405, $12,567; Celina $135,537, $172,590, $37,053; Jackson $350,457, $392,319, $32,862; Marion $533,235, $699,915, $166,680; New Philadelphia $461,176, $525,132, $64,936.

The company receives $2,094,250 under current schedules. Proposed rates would bring in $2,475,666.

By The Associated Press

UTICA, N. Y., Dec. 10—Frank Nowack of nearby Poland, reported missing on a flight from Syracuse to Wichita, Kas., has arrived there safely, his mother, Mrs. Lottie Kozlowski, reported today.

Mrs. Kozlowski said she was advised by her son that he landed his plane at Ada, O., due to bad weather, and continued the journey by train.

State police sent out a teletype alarm Wednesday night when Mrs. Kozlowski reported her son missing. Nowack had taken off Tuesday.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—President Truman late today receives Mme. Chiang Kai-shek's personal appeal for new and far-reaching American aid to the hard-pressed government of China.

The wife of China's president was scheduled to go to Blair House—the temporary White House—at 5 p. m. for tea with the President and Mrs. Truman.

2 Warrants Filed In Bank Robbery

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., Dec. 10—Sheriff Randall A. Clark of Hardin county announced early today arrest warrants had been signed for two Mexicans wanted in connection with the $1,000 robbery of the Dunkirk branch of the Kenton Savings bank, Wednesday afternoon.

Sheriff Clark told newsmen authorities of western and southwestern states were alerted to apprehend the men who are believed to be enroute to Mexico in the Blue 1941 Oldsmobile sedan in which they escaped after the robbery.

Believed Heading West

A car answering the description of the bandit's vehicle was reported seen near Wapakoneta Thursday, believed heading for the Indiana state line, Sheriff Clark said. The car sought carries Ohio license plates numbers 6235V issued in Findlay to Lucio Valdez. Valdez is one of the two men for whom arrest warrants were issued, Clark added. The identity of the second man for whom a warrant was issued was withheld by the sheriff.

Sheriff Clark said he learned Thursday the gun believed used in the holdup was supposedly purchased in a Findlay store three days before the holdup. The gun was identified as .32 caliber Buffalo automatic pistol, a make of gun he had never heard of before, Sheriff Clark added.

Suspected in Store Holdup

The two Mexicans named in the warrants issued today are also wanted for questioning in connection with a $2,000 clothing store robbery in Deshler, O., early Tuesday, the sheriff stated.

The actual total of cash taken from the bank by the holdup man was reported as $1,011.34. The bandit overlooked another $1,000 lying in the same cash drawer, the sheriff said.

Consider Building Bellepoint Dam

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10—City officials here were considering today the construction of a Mill Creek dam near Bellepoint as a possible substitute for the construction of the Hoover dam on the Big Walnut north of Central College.

The study was disclosed in a letter from Service Director Elmer A. Keller to Col. A. M. Neilson, chief of the Huntington division of the Ohio River engineer's office.

A Mill Creek dam could furnish Columbus with an additional 23,000,000 gallons of water daily, Keller said. The city's share of construction costs would be some $3,000,000, he added.

TEMPERANCE LEADERS ACCUSE WET FORCES

Charge They Attempt To Destroy Local Option Petitions.

Temperance leaders charged in Columbus today that the "wets" in Marion and numerous other Ohio counties are seeking to destroy the effectiveness of a petition calling for a local option law to be enacted by the new Ohio legislature.

Ohio WCTU president, Mrs. Mary Ervin, and S. P. McNaught, state superintendent of the Temperance League, declared the liquor interests are conducting an organized campaign to reduce the number of names on the petition below the total required by law, The Associated Press reported from Columbus.

If successful, the tactic would give the dry forces hardly enough time to make up the deficiency, the temperance spokesmen complained.

They reported liquor interests were active in many Ohio counties. Those specifically mentioned in addition to Marion county included Hardin, Madison, Montgomery, Greene and Franklin.

Miss Ervin said liquor interest representatives used the argument that a county option law would increase taxes by cutting down revenue from liquor sales.

Shoots 4 Co-workers, Self After Argument

By The Associated Press

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 10—An argument over steam boilers yesterday resulted in shooting deaths of five Northern Pacific railway shop workers. Four of the men were slain by a fifth, who then took his own life.

The slayer was John J. Hill, 54. His victims were T. R. Williams, 65; W. L. Butler, 44; Arthur Buhrman, 48, and Joseph T. Murray, 65, all of St. Paul.

A company official said Hill had been instructed to replace covers of several steam boilers following a check by state inspectors. He declined to do so and an argument and the shooting followed. Hill shot his fellow workers and himself with a deer rifle.

SNOW CAUSES 4 ACCIDENTS

Half-Inch Fall Here Leaves Highway Slippery; One Driver Injured.

Roads left slippery by the first real snowfall of the season in this area caused four traffic accidents today, the highway patrol recorded. A half inch of snow fell in Marion early this morning and more is due to fall tomorrow in Ohio, the U.S. weather bureau reported from Columbus.

Temperatures dropped into the low 20's in many sections of Ohio and the weather bureau predicted they would fall to the neighborhood of 10 tonight. The low in Marion yesterday was 32 and the high 34.

Mrs. Margaret Hill, 18, was injured fatally at Columbus when her automobile skidded and struck a truck, the Associated Press reported.

Ralph Beckel of near Waldo was injured at 8:30 a. m. this morning when his car slid off the road on route 23 just south of the city limits and struck a tree on the Harding memorial grounds. He was taken by a passing motorist to City hospital where he was treated for lacerations of the forehead and leg bruises and released. The right side of the Beckel car was damaged.

A haulaway outfit carrying four new cars and a truck collided at 8 a. m. this morning just south of Upper Sandusky on route 23. None of the new cars were damaged but the front of the carrier, driven by Herman Casto of Mason City, W. Va., was smashed. Damage to the truck driven by James Trader of Lansing, Mich., was extensive.

Poor visibility during a snowfall caused a headon collision between cars driven by Leo Jackson of near Marion and William Brady of near Worthington at 9 a. m. today six miles east of Caledonia on route 30-S. Brady was attempting to pass a truck when the accident occurred, said the patrol. Neither driver was injured but both vehicles were badly damaged.

Falling snow was a contributing cause of a collision between cars driven by Lowell Doyle and Norris Reynolds, both of near Caledonia, at 1:50 a. m. this morning seven miles east of Marion on route 30-S. The patrol reports that Doyle was unable to stop his car which struck the rear of the Reynolds vehicle. Both cars were damaged and Doyle received a bump on the head but the injury did not require treatment.

Stamp Window Open Until 6 P. M. Saturday

For the convenience of persons whose working hours prevent their purchasing stamps and mailing Christmas packages during the regular hours at the postoffice, the stamp and registry windows will remain open until 6 p. m. tomorrow and the following Saturday, Homer D. Cole, postmaster, announced today. On the regular schedule the windows close at noon on Saturday.

With the normal mail volume at an all-time high, Postmaster Cole warns that unless Christmas parcels are mailed at once and Christmas cards well in advance of Christmas week, there is a likelihood of not having them delivered until after Christmas.

According to word received from the postmaster general's department, preparations have been made for this year's record mailings since early last spring. It is pointed out, however, that only by the wholehearted cooperation of the mailing public will it be possible to handle this year's unprecedented holiday mailings on

KEY FIGURE IN SPY PROBE OUT OF EDITOR JOB

Chambers' Action Announced by Attorneys; Mrs. Hiss Goes Before Grand Jury.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 — Whittaker Chambers, confessed former Communist courier and key figure in the probe of alleged Communist espionage, has resigned as a senior editor of Time magazine, his attorneys announced today.

The announcement came as Mrs. Priscilla Hiss, wife of Alger Hiss, appeared at the federal building to testify before a grand jury probing the alleged Communist spying.

The attorney's announcement was headed "Statement by Whittaker Chambers." It said:

"I have offered my resignation as a senior editor of Time magazine. It has been accepted.

"Both of these acts became imperative when I recently began to make revelations about Communist espionage."

Knew He Was Ex-Red

The statement added that "when Time hired me in 1939, its editors knew that I was an ex-Communist; they did not know that espionage was involved."

"For nine years, I have been actively fighting Communism. I believe I was helpful in alerting Time's editors years ago to the dangers of worldwide Communism, which have been confirmed by events and which are now generally, if imperfectly, understood in this country.

"In my own writing, I have tried to give expression to human values which I knew from my own experience Communism denies and destroys.

"Now, after nine years of work done in good conscience, I have been called upon to expose the darkest and most dangerous side of Communism—espionage. This can be done only if a man who knows the facts will stand up and tell them without regard to the cost of consequences to himself.

"I can not share this indispensable ordeal with any one. Therefore, with a quiet and firm mind, I am withdrawing from among the colleagues with whom I worked for so many years and whose support has been loyal and generous."

Statement by Publisher

Shortly after Chambers' announcement, James A. Linen, publisher of Time, issued this statement:

"Time has accepted Mr. Chambers' resignation for the reasons which he has well expressed. In accepting his resignation now, Time does not wish to prejudice and is not prejudging his recent disclosures.

"Not until all the evidence is in can the pros and cons be weighed.

"Against the admitted disservice to his country, of a decade ago, must be set the service we are convinced he is trying to perform, for his country now."

FIND SPIES' WORK HIT OTHER NATIONS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—Vital military secrets of friendly nations turned up today among stolen government papers uncovered in the house un-American activities committee's spectacular Red spy hunt.

They involve such things as British battleships, Chinese bombers and strategic war materials from the Argentine.

And as the committee scrapped furiously with the Truman administration over how the spy probe should be run, it spotted suspect number three out in Appleton, Wis.

It ordered him to show up for a hearing by 2 p. m. today.

The man has been described to the committee as a former employ of the national bureau of standards. The bureau tests some of the government's most secret weapons and military devices.

The committee got the man's name from Whittaker Chambers, a former Communist courier. Chambers has testified that while he was in the Red underground before the war, government workers fed him secret documents for transmission to Russian agents.

He has named Alger Hiss and Henry Julian Wadleigh, both formerly in the state department, as two of the suppliers.

Hiss, now head of the Carnegie foundation for international peace, has denied all.

Wadleigh, now unemployed and living at nearby Vienna, Va., was a witness yesterday. He refused to say whether he had or had not

Carnera Comeback

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK — THE HOTEL DOOR opened and a fist the size of a mutton flipped out.

It caught me playfully on the chin and stopped my head six inches to the leeward—all the play my neck has left.

"Eee, 'allo," boomed Primo Carnera. "Come in!"

This is the way "Da Preem" welcomes any visitor to his room except a dwarf. And a dwarf would probably get a big, friendly fist in his face too—if Carnera could swing that low.

Hal Boyle

I walked in with a friend, who carelessly tossed his hat on a bed.

"Oh, my God, my God, don't do that," Carnera reproached him. "That's bad luck—to put the hat on the bed."

But today bad luck is something the big man they used to call the Ambling Alp no longer has to worry about. He's riding the crest now—making $200,000 to $250,000 a year in the wrestling ring.

At 42 the ex-heavyweight boxing champ is a success again and happier than he has ever been. He is in love with his own life story. And he likes to tell it with the simple pleasure of a small boy reciting an adventure tale. But there is hardly space in one hotel room for Carnera, his king-sized bed and his oversize voice.

• • •

THE BIG FELLOW, so poor as a boy in Italy he wore gunny sacks for shoes, became European wrestling champion before he was old enough to vote. In 1928 he turned to boxing and was brought here in 1930.

He was built up to the championship in 1933, and lost it a year later to Max Baer. The huge shambling man—he's six feet 6½ inches, weighs 265—was a somewhat pathetic figure in those days. The men who manipulated him cut his fabulous earnings more ways than a cafeteria pie.

"But it is not true that I went home in Italy in 1936 all broke," insisted Carnera, who has pride. "I bought a villa, a farm with eight tenant houses and some other property, which I still have. No, the big mistake I made only [illegible] to have to take back my American dollars to Italy. When the lira dropped there fell I lose all my value."

During the war the Germans put Primo to work in a pick and shovel unit and he earned fifteen cents for a ten-hour day something, he said, no fight manager ever did to him.

• • •

CARNERA RETURNED to America only a few years late in 1946 and recuperated immediately to stage a comeback.

"It is much better than boxing," he said. "After 30 in boxing you are through. You lose the eyes, the speed. But in wrestling all you need to keep is the strength.

"You push, you pull, but your brain, it don't get hurt. When they put the legs around the body and give the squeeze, it don't hurt the brain.

"My ad vice to Joe Louis is to quit before he gets hurt. He has gone down a long way. I was lucky not to get hurt.

"I am much better off now. In the boxing game you make the big gate. But maybe only once, twice a year. But in wrestling you work four, five, six nights every week."

Carnera gets from $350 to $2,000 a night, and as he says, this time I get to keep most of it myself." He used to be only amiable. Now he's smart as well.

• • •

CARNERA WANTS to become an American citizen. His family—his wife and their children, Umberto, 9, and Giovanna Maria, 6—live in Los Angeles.

"They didn't speak English when they came over," he said. "Now Umberto is in the fourth grade, and ahead of the others in the class. I am amazing about it—the way he speak English. He is going to study and study until I tell him to stop and learn a trade. But not boxing or wrestling—oh boy, no!"

And then Carnera, who is artless but was never as foolish as he has been made to appear, said with massive dignity:

"It is all wonderful. I am very, very happy."

The gunny sack days are gone. There's food in the pantry, a car in the garage, cash in the bank—and more rolling in every night papa grunts and groans. The Alp's doing okay.

Potluck Dinner Held By PHC Past Presidents

A potluck dinner preceded a meeting of the Past Presidents club of Marion Circle No. 184, PHC, Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester England on Henry street. Table decorations were in keeping with the holiday season. A donation was made to Boys Village at Smithville, O., and a Christmas basket was packed for a member who has illness in her family. A former member was reinstated. Gifts from under a lighted Christmas tree were exchanged.

Euchre was played, with high honors going to Mrs. Evelyn England, second to Mrs. Clarice England, and third to Mrs. Gera Griffiths. Richard England was consoled. The next meeting will be in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Griffiths on Wallace street.

EXPRESS CO. MAKES SHIP EARLY PLEA

Act To Assure Delivery by Christmas.

The Marion office of the Railway Express joins the local postoffice in urging the early forwarding of Christmas packages in order to insure delivery by Christmas day. "Shop and Ship Early," is the express company's 1948 slogan.

Because of the many duplications of names of towns the company is asking that at least two address tags or labels be placed on each package, Elmer J. Saiter, agent at the Marion office said today. Each tag or label should bear the complete names, street numbers and full names of city and state, he added.

Shopping and shipping early means more this season than ever before, due to present conditions, Mr. Saiter states. The company helps out by providing attractive "Do not open until Christmas" labels upon request. Delicate or fragile articles should be well padded and plainly marked "Fragile" on the outside. These caution labels also are supplied as required, he explains.

Last minute shoppers will find the use of air express service particularly suited for shipping to all parts of the country, including off-airline points, and the company's foreign service reaches into Central and South America, Europe and Asia, Mr. Saiter explains.

Advance Opening Of Kenton Axle Plant

Special to The Star

KENTON, Dec. 10—Due to the rapid progress being made in the construction of the new Kenton plant of the Timken-Detroit Axle company here, officials of the company today advanced the date originally set for the opening of the factory.

While plans first called for beginning operations April 1, 1949, the schedule has been advanced one month. John H. Roach, engineer in charge of construction of the Kenton plant said the company can start moving in its production equipment by Feb. 1 and that operations can begin by the first of March.

Timken-Detroit has announced that it will employ 400 persons in the Kenton factory when it comes under full production. All but a few of the executive personnel will be drawn from the Kenton area, it was stated. Most of the employes will be men.

To Make Axles

The local plant is to be equipped to manufacture and assemble all of Timken-Detroit's automotive axles other than those for pleasure cars.

The building site, located one mile south of Kenton on U. S. Route 68, was a 22-acre cornfield when acquired by the company July 16. Today the entire main plant area is under roof and most of the concrete has been poured for roadways outside the plant. All floor slab work for the 344x287-foot main building is finished. A total of 23,000 square feet of concrete will be used in the runways outside. Erection of much of the structural steel work already is finished. Constructed of face brick and Indiana limestone trim, the front wall facing Route 68 is 80 per cent complete.

Within the next week completion is indicated for the plant's sewage disposal plant. Also nearing completion are the factory's main water lines which will receive the ten-inch line being installed by the city directly from the Kenton waterworks. This work by the city was contracted at a figure of approximately $40,000.

Electric power for the factory is being furnished by the Ohio Power company.

The plant will be 132,000 square feet in area, and one of the most modern of its type in the country.

Shifting Operations

Establishment of the Kenton factory represents an operational shift in the Timken-Detroit program. Both economy and military security figure in the plan to shift some of the company's operations out of Detroit, Col. Willard F. Rockwell, chairman of the board, said. He declared that the company is anxious, for reasons of economy, to get closer to the source of steel supplies.

Opening of the Kenton plant is expected to bring an annual payroll of a million dollars in the largest industrial operation in Hardin county. The plant will be under the direct charge of Mr. P. V. Osborn, of Detroit, vice president in charge of production.

FAIR BUILDING SOLD

KENTON—A barn which had stood on the Hardin county fairgrounds for many years was sold for $270 to C. S. Turner of near Kenton at auction here. It was agreed the building must be removed from the fairgrounds by April 1, 1949.

WORST APPEARANCE. Admitting himself that it was his "worst public appearance," film actor Errol Flynn walks from a New York police bull pen to court to answer a bench warrant issued when he failed to appear on schedule on a charge of kicking a policeman in the shins. Magistrate Doris L. Byrne reinstated his forfeited bond, but ordered him to appear for a hearing on assault charge.

STUDY GROUP MEETS

At a meeting of the Mothers Study group of Edison Junior High school Monday night in the home of Mrs. Melvin Stanley of 328 Clinton street, Mrs. Wayne Murray was enrolled as a new member. Devotions were by Mrs. Irvin Myers, and a quiz on the problem child was conducted by Mrs. James Ward. During a social hour, a Christmas exchange was held. Contest awards went to Mrs. Closs Musgrave and Mrs. Ward. Mrs. Merwyn Harruff and Mrs. Earl Luke were co-hostesses. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Ward at 614 Uncapher avenue.

The U. S. Census Bureau is sharpening up its pencils and its wits for the big quiz of 1950. Every 10 years, when the census quizzers are readying a barrage of questions for the voters, they get a hatful of requests from people who want to tack a few extra queries to the list. But, with each question costing up to $300,000 to ask, the Bureau is as careful as a barber cutting his own hair. Among other things, the Census is the basis for the Congressional and electoral representation of each state. So, when Uncle Sam's quiz-masters finally get around to you, don't refuse to answer their questions. It just doesn't "make census!"

FIRE SWEEPS HOTEL, ROUTS MANY GUESTS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 10—Fire swept through the five-story, 208-room Ravenna hotel in North Clark street early today, driving dozens of residents into the street.

Fire officials said there were no casualties. One man was hospitalized after being overcome by smoke.

Flames shot more than 50 feet into the air as the fire spread rapidly through the brick hotel building across the Chicago river from the Loop.

An extra-alarm was sounded and 42 pieces of fire equipment rushed to the scene. Deputy Chief Fire Marshal Otto Dahl said the fire was believed to have started on the second floor and spread through the walls to the top floor.

Most of the guests fled when the flames were discovered but firemen helped carry some into the street. Hundreds of persons watched firemen fight the blaze in the below freezing weather. The mercury was around 16 above.

Firemen fought the blaze for more than four hours before it was brought under control. Chief Fire Marshall Anthony J. Mullaney said the cause of the fire had not been determined.

Offer Evidence Of Shakedown

Circleville Lawyers Will Deal Only with Dunifon on Liquor Racket.

By International News Service

CIRCLEVILLE, O., Dec. 10 — Two attorneys who charged liquor department "agents" with attempting to shake down four Circleville permit holders for $1,800 for "protection" offered to give their evidence to liquor director Dale Dunifon today.

They stated, however, that "we have this information for Mr. Dunifon alone. We will not do business with Geyer."

Don Geyer is the chief of the liquor enforcement section of the liquor department.

The attorneys, Joseph Adkins and Emmitt Crist, said "we are ready whenever Mr. Dunifon is."

The charges center around demands on four private clubs — three for $500 and the fourth for $300—by a "contact man" in return for which there would be no slot machine raids on the clubs from now until the administration changes January 10.

Gave Number To Call

The "contact" gave the clubs a Columbus phone number to call to verify the proposed deal. Adkins and Crist said the number was "Main 3281," and the extension was either 60 or 80."

(Main 3281 is the liquor department number in Columbus, and extension 60 formerly was that of the agent in charge of enforcement in the Columbus district, which includes Circleville.)

The attorneys have been retained by Circleville Police Chief William McGrady, who was charged by liquor department agents with refusing to accompany them on a raid on the Moose club.

They claimed that the club already had sent its permit back to Columbus, and exhibited a letter they said was a receipt for the license, dated Nov. 9 and apparently signed by Robert Woods, chief of the permit section.

Mr. Woods, however, denied that the permit had been received and insisted it was not in his files.

The stenographic note at the bottom of the disputed letter was "MGT/MJW."

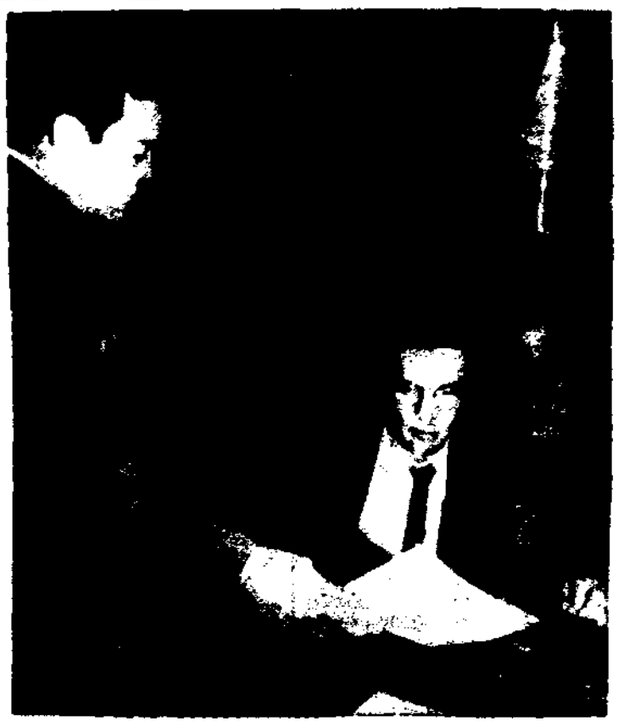
Made in Other Counties

Adkins and Crist said they "understood" payoffs for protection already had been made in Bellefontaine, Lancaster and Delaware county."

As to the contact man, they said he was "well known" in Circleville and added:

"Some of the boys here even call him by his first name."

The attorneys said they would "push this thing clear into the governor's office if necessary."



DECLINE TO IDENTIFY. Henry Julian Wadleigh (right) former state department employe, refuses to identify a picture of Whittaker Chambers, confessed Red agent, being shown to him during house un-American activities committee hearing by Committee Investigator Louis J. Russell (left) in Washington. Wadleigh denied he was a Communist, but refused to say whether he ever turned over restricted documents to Chambers or Alger Hiss.

CHIANG PUTS CHINA UNDER MARTIAL LAW

By The Associated Press

NANKING, Dec. 10—President Chiang Kai-shek tonight extended martial law to all China under the Nationalist control, except for the far western provinces and Formosa.

The generalissimo's action was taken amid the deepening civil war crisis. Both Nanking and Peiping, north China metropolis, are threatened by Chinese Communist armies.

Chiang's proclamation extends military jurisdiction to areas thus far remote from the fighting. Shanghai, Nanking and Peiping were placed under martial law several weeks ago.

Meanwhile, Red troops were believed trying to cut Nationalist communications behind the Hwai river—Nanking's last defense line north of the Yangtze.

Government sources said the Communists are attempting to cross the Hwai at a bend in the river 90 miles northwest of Nanking. This is at a point where the river is lightly defended.

This threat arose as the bulk of the government armies of east China still strove to break loose from two big traps north of the Hwai.

SPIES

slipped secret information from the state department.

Wadleigh said he might incriminate himself by answering questions on that point.

Chambers has yielded to the committee some of the papers he obtained, in the form of photographs or copies. Most of them came from the state department and are dated 1937 and 1938.

The committee showed signs of heeding the advice of the state department on whether it should or shouldn't publish the texts of the ten-year-old documents. Some probably will be turned loose and the rest withheld.

Proposal Turned Down

But the committee last night hotly rejected a proposal of the justice department that for the sake of "the internal security of this country" it lay off quizzing witnesses who have testified or will testify to a New York grand jury investigating espionage.

Alexander M. Campbell, assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division, cited a law he said would bar such testimony from any possible criminal trial against the witnesses on any charge except perjury.

Campbell also "respectfully" asked in a letter to Acting Chairman Mundt (R-SD) that the committee "refrain from releasing any information which it has regarding said investigations.

Clark Issues Statement

Attorney General Clark, meanwhile, got out a statement complaining of "premature and ill-advised publicity" he said is coming from the committee.

With the unanimous backing of the committee, Mundt fired back that Campbell was making "an utterly unreasonable attack upon the prerogative of the United States congress." He said Campbell had placed a "strained interpretation" on the law in question.

9 KILLED, 16 HURT IN KANSAS BLAST

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA, Kas., Dec. 10—Nine men were killed and 16 injured in a series of blasts that shook a huge power and light plant near this state capital for almost 45 minutes yesterday.

Rescue crews still groped through debris today seeking other possible victims.

The explosions occurred in the Kansas Power and Light Company's main plant and left Topeka, a city of 90,000, without electricity for several hours.

Hospitals were forced to operate on an emergency basis, elevators were stalled in downtown buildings and many shops and offices closed early. No serious accidents were reported, although traffic was snarled at busy intersections when signal lights went out. Theaters were blacked out.

Fire broke out during the explosions which rocked a large area.

The plant is in the little town of Tecumseh, five miles east of here.

The exact cause of the explosions had not been determined but several workers reported they had smelled gas in the building.

GOVERNMENT

A corrections department would receive prisoners committed to it by courts for assignment, instead of to specific institutions.

A social services department would operate present divisions of aid for the aged and social administration.

Under the new plan, the governor would not be bound by recommendations of the public health council in picking a health director as now.

Sole responsibility for the liquor department would be vested in a director named by the governor. The present liquor board would only review the director's rules and regulations and hear appeals from administrative decisions. There would be only three board members instead of four, and their terms would be six years instead of four.

Conservation unification was urged. Recommended was a director responsible to the governor. The present conservation commission, which picks the commissioner, would be reduced to advisory status.

The tax commissioner would handle assessments, subject to a board of review. Local officials would conduct continuous instead of periodic realty appraisals.

State office buildings would be erected in Cleveland, Toledo and Cincinnati to centralize work of some 12,000 field service employes. At present they are directed from 102 offices in those cities and in Akron and Dayton.

'LIFT SPEEDS UP AIR FORCE GROWTH

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Dec. 10 The Berlin airlift has forced a speed-up in the Air Force expansion, bringing it now to bigger size.

This development was spotlighted today by an Air Force order for redeployment of three overseas units. These units include the transfer of a transport unit from Japan to Germany and assignment of a fighter wing to the Panama Canal defense system.

The new 60-group strength includes nine troop carrier units—one more than had been planned—even by next June 30. On that date the Air Force is scheduled to have 66 groups of all types—bombers, fighters, transports and other elements.

The new addition to Berlin's food ferry fleet makes a total of five transport wings operating there—apparently on a permanent basis. The Air Force said the 317th troop carrier wing will transfer "this month" from Tachikama, Japan, to Germany. About 1,050 more men will be added to the outfit before it arrives in Europe (The normal strength of a troop carrier wing is approximately 1,500).

In answer to a question, Air Force spokesmen said the five transport outfits are "stationed" in Germany instead of being there on "temporary duty." In military language, this indicates a permanent assignment as distinguished from a limited time mission.

SABOTAGE SCARE GRIPS RUSS BERLIN

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Dec. 10 — A sabotage scare gripped the Communist government of eastern Berlin today.

Paul Markgraf, chief of police in the Soviet-occupied sector, announced he had taken direct command of the fire department. The action came after he investigated a fire which destroyed a big city gas works three nights ago.

The Soviet army's official newspaper, Taegliche Rundschau, reported discovery of a purported plot by teachers to remove equipment of an industrial school in eastern Berlin to an area under protection of the western powers, the United States, Britain and France.

Communist associates of Friedrich Ebert, chosen lord mayor of the rump government Nov. 30, disclosed a further purge of city employees is in prospect. They said all ranks of officials would be screened to determine whether "dangerous reactionaries" still remained at their posts.

Ebert's legal director told newsmen the city's administration of justice would be revised and unified with that in other parts of Russian-occupied Germany.

DRY ICE SHOOTS PISTOL

By The United Press

EVANSVILLE, Ind.—John Calling, an engineer, has invented a pistol that uses dry ice as a substitute for gunpowder. Calling says the pistol shoots a bullet with greater force than an air gun. A cylinder containing four ounces of dry ice is under the chamber. When the ice "melts," it forms carbon dioxide gas which creates 1,000 pounds pressure per square inch.

URGES BRITAIN TO END ISRAEL BOYCOTT

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Dec. 10 — Winston Churchill urged Britain today to end her "sulky boycott" of the new state of Israel.

The wartime prime minister also told the house of commons in a foreign affairs debate:

1. Attempts should be made to end the east-west cold war and reach a settlement with Russia "before they have the atomic bomb as well as the Americans."

2. Britain should achieve full diplomatic relations with Franco Spain "as soon as we can obtain the sanction of the United Nations."

Speaking of the Palestine situation, the conservative leader told the house:

"The government of Israel, which has been set up at Tel Aviv, should not be ignored and treated as though it did not exist.

"We should send representatives to Tel Aviv without further delay."

Britain thus far has refused to follow the lead of the United States and Russia in recognizing the new Jewish state.

Churchill devoted much of his 70-minute speech to praising the continuing development of British-American unity.

He won loud cheers for his warm praise of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as a man who "labored faithfully for the cause of Anglo-American amity and brotherhood throughout the world."

RAP TREATMENT OF NEGROES IN CAPITAL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Dec. 10 — A committee [illegible] sections of the country said today the treatment of Negroes in Washington is a disgrace to all America's reputation for freedom.

A 91-page [illegible] report said segregation is practiced more consistently today in the nation's capital than it was a half century ago.

Citing case after case of segregation of Negroes in [illegible] theaters, restaurants, [illegible] parks and playgrounds the document said:

"If Horatio Alger had a modern face, he would have a hard time in the capital today. He would first be judged not on his merit but by his skin.

The report said visitors from other countries assess American promises to take a lead in developing the equality of man by what they see in Washington. It declared:

"Few Americans can appreciate what a shock Washington can be to visitors from abroad. It is to them, even more than to most of us, the symbol of America."

Heading the 87-member "national committee on segregation in the nation's capital" is Dr. George N. Shuster, president of Hunter college, New York. Other members include Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, publishers Marshall Field and Palmer Hoyt, actors Melvin Douglas and Helen Hayes, labor leaders James B. Carey and Walter Reuther, senator-elect Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn), and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

The group's study was conducted by a staff headed by Dr Joseph D. Lohman, University of Chicago sociologist.

Authorities estimate that 11,000 Americans will die in fires this year, and more than double that number will be badly burned.

In 1946, New York state residents had an aggregate income of $22,895,000,000.

FIRE CAUSES BRIEF CLEVELAND BLACKOUT

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. ... Lake Erie ... a wartime blackout last night when a fire in the switch house of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. plunged most of the eastside and downtown ... darkness.

The lights went out twice. The first failure occurred shortly before 8 p. m. and after one brief return of light 40 minutes later they all went out again for 12 minutes.

The fire occurred in the same switch house which darkened the city for 40 minutes last March 22. No one was injured and chemical foam was used to bring the fire under control.

Approximately 40,000 CEI customers were affected. An emergency crew of 100 men worked through the early morning hours to get service restored completely.

Origin of the fire was described as a "jump of current" from a solid row of breakers to another solid row of breakers. There was no estimate of damage.

The west side which ... by the municipal light plant experienced no interruption of service.

The power failure ... light pub... transportation ... a standstill on the east side as street cars and trackless trolleys of the Cleveland Transit system halted. Buses were pressed into service ... but were able to ... a fraction of the ... number of Transit customers.

YULE FIRE RISK CITED BY CHIEF

Sifritt Heads Campaign To Have Safety Methods Observed.

A ... Christmas tree fire ... reported, Chief O A Sifritt ... Marion city fire department ... Marion residents ... Christmas time is fire ... the department ... campaign to reduce the ... rate of fires during December.

Yesterday Chief Sifritt began an inspection of Marion stores ... displays for fire hazards ... and announced a series of fire safety rules for the home. Citing figures released by the Fire Prevention Institute he said that in December 1947, an average of ... million dollars worth of property went up in smoke each day in the United States.

Urges Extreme Care

"Great care must be taken with Christmas trees," he said. "Whenever possible trees and Christmas decorations should be fireproofed. The process is simple and may save your home or your life." The chief described the method used. Nine ounces of borax and four ounces of boric acid are dissolved in a gallon of water. If the tree is small it may be dipped and for larger trees and decorations the solution may be applied with a paint brush or cloth.

He named other rules that should be followed when putting up Christmas trees. They should never be placed near a door or entrance blocking a way of escape in case of fire. If the tree is to be up any length of time it should be placed in a pail of water. The tree will stay green longer and be less likely to burn. No one should leave the house with the Christmas lights left on. Never should lighted candles be placed on a tree.

Inspection Advised

Chief Sifritt advised that Christmas light strands should be inspected. If they are frayed, extremely old or covered with tape, they should be replaced.

No form of cotton should be used on trees or as decorations unless it is treated with fireproof material. Most stores now sell decoration material already treated, he said.

Homeowners should not overlook the importance of approved fire extinguishers, the chief said. He urged Marion residents to keep extinguishers handy in a bucket of water for use in case of a tree blaze.

MANY FAILED TO VOTE FOR PRESIDENT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—A total of 49,363,798 ballots were cast on Nov. 2 but only 48,680,416 were marked for president.

That means 683,382 voters balloted for state, county and local candidates but skipped making a choice for the highest office in the land.

The 48,680,416 total vote for president is the second largest in history. In 1940 the record high it was 49,820,312. In 1944 it was 47,976,281.

The results of the election with tabulation by The Associated Press of official returns from the 48 states:

President elector ... meet Monday in the state capitals to go through the formality of casting their votes. President Truman should get 304 from 28 states unless Tennessee gives one or two of hers to Gov. J. Strom Thurmond. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will get 189 from 16 states and Thurmond 38 from four excluding a last possible mix-up in Tennessee.

Truman's total vote was 24,104,838. Dewey received 21,969,500. Thurmond 1,169,312. Henry A. Wallace, Progressive 1,157,109. Norman Thomas, Socialist 132,138. Claude A. Watson, Prohibition, 103,343. Edward A. Teichert, Socialist-Labor 27,921. Farrell Dobbs, Socialist Workers 13,007, and the rest scattered.

Truman won by a plurality of 2,135,336, but it was the first time since 1916 that a winner has failed to capture a majority of all votes cast. His percentage was 49.5. Dewey ... 45.1, and the other combined 5.4.

Eisenhower, Zhukov Clash in Talks On Governmental Rule

* * *

By DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

(Copyright, 1948, by Doubleday and Company, Inc.)

* * *

30. Marshal Zhukov and the Russians.

MARSHAL ZHUKOV and I frequently discussed the campaigns of the war. Because of his special position for several years in the Red Army he had had a longer experience as a responsible leader in great battles than any other man of our time. It seems that he was habitually sent to whatever Russian sector appeared at the moment to be the decisive one. By his descriptions of the composition of the Russian Army, of the terrain over which it fought, and of his reasons for his strategic decisions, it was clear that he was an accomplished soldier.

The marshal was astonished when I told him that each of our divisions, with its reinforcing battalions, was maintained at a strength of 17,000. He said that he tried to maintain his divisions at about 8,000, but that frequently, in a long campaign, some would be depleted to a strength of 3,000 to 4,000.

Highly illuminating to me was his description of the Russian method of attacking through mine fields. The German mine fields, covered by defensive fire, were tactical obstacles that caused us many casualties and delays.

Marshal Zhukov gave me a matter-of-fact statement of his practice, which was, roughly, "There are two kinds of mines; one is the personnel mine and the other is the vehicular mine. When we come to a mine field our infantry attacks exactly as if it were not there. The losses we get from personnel mines we consider only equal to those we would have gotten from machine guns and artillery if the Germans had chosen to defend that particular area with strong bodies of troops instead of with mine fields. The attacking infantry does not set off the vehicular mines, so after they have penetrated to the far side of the field they form a bridgehead, after which the engineers come up and dig out channels through which our vehicles can go."

* * *

I HAD A VIVID picture of what would happen to any American or British commander if he pursued such tactics, and I had an even more vivid picture of what the men in any one of our divisions would have had to say about the matter had we attempted to make such a practice a part of our tactical doctrine. Americans assess the cost of war in terms of human lives, the Russians in the over-all drain on the nation.

As far as I could see, Zhukov had given little concern to methods that we considered vitally important to the maintenance of morale among American troops: systematic rotation of units, facilities for recreation, short leaves and furloughs, and, above all, the development of techniques to avoid exposure of men to unnecessary battlefield risks, all of which, although common practices in our Army, seemed to be largely unknown in his.

The basic differences between American and Russian attitudes in the handling of men were illustrated on another occasion. While talking to a Russian general I mentioned the difficult problem that was imposed upon us at various periods of the war by the need to care for so many German prisoners.

I remarked that they were fed the same rations as were our own soldiers. In the greatest astonishment he asked, "Why did you do that?" I said, "Well, in the first place my country was required to do so by the terms of the Geneva Convention. In the second place the German had some thousands of American and British prisoners and I did not want to give Hitler the excuse or justification for treating our prisoners more harshly than he was already doing."

* * *

AGAIN the Russian seemed astounded at my attitude and he said, "But what did you care about men the Germans had captured? They had surrendered and could not fight any more." However, these statements did not necessarily mean that the Russians were cruel or were innately indifferent to human life.

The experience of Russia in World War II was a harsh one. The year 1941 saw the entire western portion of that country overrun by the Nazis. From the region of the Volga westward, almost everything was destroyed. When we flew into Russia, in 1945, I did not see a house standing between the western borders of the country and the area around Moscow.

All this would have embittered any people; it would have been completely astonishing if the Russians had not had a more direct and personal vindictiveness toward the Germans and a sterner attitude toward the realities of war than was the case in countries far removed from the scene of hostilities.

I know that in my personal relations, as the months of conflict wore on, I grew constantly more bitter against the Germans, particularly the Hitler gang. On all sides there was always evidence of the destruction that Hitler's ruthless ambition had brought about.

During the war hundreds of broken-hearted fathers, mothers, and sweethearts wrote me personal letters, begging for some hope that a loved one might still be alive, or, at the very least, for some additional detail as to the manner of his death. Every one of these I answered, and I know of no more effective means of developing an undying hatred of those responsible for aggressive war than to assume the obligation of attempting to express sympathy to families bereaved by it.

* * *

MARSHAL ZHUKOV showed little interest in measures that I thought, after Allied experience in North Africa and Europe, should be taken to protect the foot soldier and to increase his individual effectiveness. The Russians viewed measures to protect the individual against fatigue and wounds as possibly too costly. Great victories, they seem to think, inevitably require huge casualties.

I saw Marshal Zhukov for the last time November 7, 1945. It was a Soviet holiday, in honor of which he gave a large reception in Berlin, inviting to it the senior commanders and staff officers of all the Allies.

When I arrived Marshal Zhukov, with his wife and a number of his senior assistants, was standing in the receiving line. He greeted me and then promptly deserted the receiving line. He took his wife by the arm, and the three of us, with an interpreter, retired to a comfortable room where there were refreshments of all kinds. We talked for two hours.

The tenor of the marshal's conversation was that he believed that we in Berlin had done something to help in the difficult problem of promoting understanding between two nations so diverse in their cultural and political conceptions as were the United States and the Soviet Union. He felt that we could accomplish still more. He talked at length about the new United Nations and remarked: "If the United States and Russia will only stand together through thick and thin success is certain for the United Nations. If we are partners there are no other countries in the world that would dare to go to war when we forbade it."

The marshal seemed to be a firm believer in the Communist concept. He said that, as he saw it, the Soviet system of government was based upon idealism, and ours upon materialism.

* * *

IN EXPANDING his idea of this difference he remarked—and introduced an apology because of his criticism—that he felt our system appealed to all that was selfish in people. He said that we induced a man to do things by telling him he might keep what he earned, might say what he pleased, and in every direction allowed him to be largely an undisciplined, unoriented entity within a great national complex.

He asked me to understand a system in which the attempt was made to substitute for such motivations the devotion of a man to the great national complex of which he formed a part. In spite of my complete repudiation of such contentions and my condemnation of all systems that involved dictatorship, there was no doubt in my mind that Marshal Zhukov was sincere.

The marshal told me that a book written by an American about Russia stated that Marshal Zhukov was shorter by two or three inches than his wife, and that he had two sons. This story irritated him because he saw in it personal disparagement and belittlement.

He and his wife stood up for a moment and he said, "Now you see what kind of lies some of your writers publish about." And he added, "Also, we have no sons. We have two daughters."

He referred to a picture of the Generalissimo published by one of our magazines. This was not a personal photograph but was a likeness of a painted portrait that hung in one of the Berlin night clubs. The magazine picture had been taken in such a way that, with seeming intent, the Generalissimo's portrait was photographed in most unfortunate and undignified surroundings.

This literally infuriated the marshal. He turned to me and said: "If a picture of you like this one should appear in a Russian magazine, I would see that the magazine ceased operations at once. It would be eliminated. What are you going to do?"

THIS CALLED for me to describe the free press of America, but after an earnest and, I thought, eloquent attempt I found that I had made no impression whatsoever. The marshal merely repeated, "If you are Russia's friend you will do something about it."

Even after I returned to the United States the marshal and I continued, until April, 1946, to correspond on our accustomed friendly terms. In the spring of that year he was relieved from his Berlin command and I have never since heard from him directly. It was rumored that he was out of favor—that for some reason he had fallen from the high place he held in Russian affections and popular esteem during the late months of the war.

One of the speculative reasons given for his virtual disappearance was his known friendship with me. I cannot believe that such was the case because, in spite of that friendship, he always seemed to be profoundly convinced of the essential rectitude of the Communist theory.

He knew that I was an uncompromising foe of Communism because I believed that it was synonymous with dictatorship; he would listen patiently when I said that I hated everything that smacked of statism, and that our whole Western tradition was devoted to the idea of personal liberty. But his own adherence to the Communistic doctrine seemed to come from inner conviction and not from any outward compulsion.

The policy of firm adherence to the pledged word of our government was first challenged shortly after the close of hostilities. Some of my associates suddenly proposed that when so requested by the Russians I should refuse to withdraw American troops from the line of the Elbe to the area allocated to the United States for occupation.

* * *

THE ARGUMENT was that if we kept troops on the Elbe the Russians would be more likely to agree to some of our proposals, particularly as to a reasonable division of Austria. To me, such an attitude seemed indefensible.

I always felt that the Western Allies could probably have secured an agreement to occupy more of Germany than we actually did. I believe that if our political heads had been as convinced as we were at SHAEF of the certainty of early victory in the West they would have insisted, at Yalta, upon the line of the Elbe as the natural geographic line dividing the eastern and western occupation areas.

This, however, is pure speculation. I have never discussed the matter with any of the individuals directly responsible for the decision.

In any event the Berlin record of those late summer and early autumn months of 1945 represents the peak of post-war cordiality and cooperation that we were ever able to achieve with the Soviet officials. In broader fields, on highest levels, misunderstandings continued to grow and these were inevitably reflected in the local German scene. It is possible, also, that this process worked in reverse.

Americans at that time—or at least we in Berlin—saw no reason why the Russian system of government and democracy as practiced by the Western Allies could not live side by side in the world, provided each respected the rights, the territory, and the convictions of the other, and each system avoided overt or covert action against the integrity of the other.

But even such a purely practical basis for living together in the world has not been achieved.

* * *

THE IMPLICATIONS of the failure to eliminate aggression and to cooperate effectively are as full of meaning for the world as were the dictatorial and arbitrary acts in the late 1930s of Hitler, Mussolini, and Hirohito. The name of almost every small country of eastern Europe is a reminder to us of the lost objectives so bravely stated in the Atlantic Charter, even before Pearl Harbor day. Fear, doubt, and confusion are the portion of those who fought and won the war with the fervent prayer that at last this was the war to end wars.

Military preparedness alone is an adequate answer to the problem. Communism inspires and enables its militant preachers to exploit injustices and inequity among men.

The areas in which freedom flourishes will continue to shrink unless the supporters of democracy match Communist fanaticism with clear and common understanding that the freedom of men is at stake; meet Communist-regimented unity with the voluntary unity of common purpose, even though this may mean a sacrifice of some measure of nationalistic pretensions; and, above all, annul Communist appeals to the hungry, the poor, the oppressed, with practical measures untiringly prosecuted for the elimination of social and economic evils that set men against men.

As a world force, democracy is supported by nations that too much and too often act alone, each for itself alone. Nowhere perfect, in many regions democracy is pitifully weak because the separatism of national sovereignty uselessly prevents the logical pooling of resources, which would produce greater material prosperity within and multiplied strength for defense. Such combine may meet ideological conquest.

The democracies must learn that the world is now too small, for the rigid concepts of national sovereignty that developed in a time when the nations were self-sufficient and self-dependent for their own well-being and safety. None of them today can stand alone.

* * *

WE BELIEVE individual liberty, rooted in human dignity, is man's greatest treasure. We believe that men, given free expression of their will, prefer freedom and self-dependence to dictatorship and collectivism. From the evidence it would appear that the Communist leaders also believe this; else why do they attack and attempt to destroy the practice of these concepts? Were they completely confident in the rectitude and appeal of their own doctrine, there would be no necessity for them to follow an aggressive policy. Time would be the only ally they needed. If Communism as a spiritual force and moral inspiration appealed more to mankind than do individual rights and liberties.

We who saw Europe liberated know that the Communistic fear that men will cling to freedom is well founded. It is possible that this truth may be the reason for what appears to be an aggressive intent on the part of the Communists to tear down all governmental structures based upon individual freedom.

If the men and women of America face this issue as squarely and bravely as their soldiers faced the terrors of battle in World War II, we would have no fear of the outcome. If they will unite themselves as firmly as they did when they joined with their allies in Europe, the mightiest fighting force of all time, there is no temporal power that can dare challenge them. If they will retain the moral unity, the charity of comprehension, and the readiness to sacrifice that finally crushed the Axis, then the free world will live and prosper and all peoples, eventually, will reach a level of culture, contentment and security that has never before been achieved.

* * *

This is the final installment of General Eisenhower's "Crusade in Europe."

ALLIED LEADERS DRINK VICTORY TOAST. In an assembly of the Allied leaders at Frankfort on the Main, Germany, June 10, left to right: Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, of Britain; Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, U. S.; Marshal Gregor K. Zhukov, of Russia; and Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder of Britain, join in a toast to the victory of the United Nations in the European war. At the same time, Marshal Zhukov presented the jeweled Order of Victory to Montgomery and Eisenhower, only time the award was presented to a non-Russian. Previously the award was only given to Russian commanders.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 10 — President Juan D. Peron's party held a lead of more than two to one over combined opposition groups today as returns continued to come in from Sunday's election on constitutional issues.

NO JET MAIL YET
By The United Press

BURLEY, Ida. — An envelope addressed by Don Messer of San Benito, Tex., left postal officials unable to oblige this request: "Air Mail—Jet, Please."

BERGEN

"There aren't any newcomers to radio. All the shows — Benny, Hope, mine — they all sound the same."

Planned To Cancel Show

The advertising agency that handles the Bergen program said his sponsor had planned to cancel in June anyway "for economy reasons."

They were having trouble getting together on details, the agency said, so Bergen said to kill it off quick and asked for an early release from his contract.

"For 12 years I've been trying to turn out a funny show every week," he said. "It's a terrific pressure—and if the show isn't funny I'm depressed.

"I'd rather make fewer appearances."

But it's even betting which way his energies will swing after he gets his "perspective." Bergen's been in on the ground floor of television since they perfected the cathode ray tube.

Entertainment will be offered in the club social rooms Sunday night.

A district meeting of district 31, of which Marion is a part, will be held Sunday night at Marysville. Eight aeries comprising the district will be represented at the meeting. A smoker given by Marysville aerie will follow the district meeting.

NEW CLOTHING STORE TO OPEN

Axthelm-Turner, Inc., To Handle Richman Bros. Line in Marion.

Marion's newest men's furnishing store, the Axthelm-Turner, Inc., exclusive agents for Richman Bros. clothes, will be opened Saturday at 180 South Main street by the owners, Walter E. Axthelm and George E. Turner.

The room, located in the Bausinger building, has been remodeled and redecorated. Finished in combed grain light oak it has streamlined fluorescent lighting fixtures, conveniently equipped fitting rooms and attractive display cases. Yet to be completed is the front, which will be finished in gray carrara glass. The store will open at 9 a. m. for business and will remain open until 9 p. m. tomorrow night. After Saturday, the store hours maintained by other business places in the city will be observed, the owners state. A formal opening will be held later when minor details and the store front are completed.

Opening of the Axthelm-Turner store marks the return to Marion of the Richman Brothers Co. after an absence of about 10 years. The store, which is locally owned, will carry a complete line of men, young men and students' clothing, including suits, overcoats, hats and all other furnishings.

Mr. Axthelm has been associated with the Jim Dugan Clothing store for the last 34 years, having started his business career with the late James Dugan, father of John Dugan, present head of the store. He went to work for Mr. Dugan while still in high school at Cardington. Mr. Turner, who has been a resident of Marion for the last 39 years, formerly was works manager at the Marion Power Shovel Co. plant.

Mr. and Mrs. Axthelm live at 286 Elm street. They have two sons, Edward, a student at Ohio State university and David at home. Mr. and Mrs. Turner and daughter, Ruth, a member of the faculty at Harding High school, live at 381 Hane avenue.

WESLEY CHAPEL SERVICE

Communion and baptismal services will be held at the morning worship service of the Wesley Chapel church, Marseilles Methodist charge, Sunday, Rev. E. B. Dean, pastor, announced. An offer will be taken for overseas relief.

AWAITING RESCUE. Clinging to a tiny rubber raft; survivors of an Air Force C-54 transport plane forced down 1,200 miles southwest of Honolulu await rescue. All except four of the 37 persons aboard the plane were saved, some from another life raft. This airview was made with a miniature camera from one of the Navy search planes which found the men Dec. 6.

Christmas Program At Waldo Tuesday

The Waldo school annual Christmas program will be presented to the public Tuesday, Dec. 14, at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium.

A feature of the program will be an operetta, "She Doesn't Believe," to be given by pupils of grades two, three, four, five and six. It is the story of a little girl who doesn't believe in Christmas. The principal role will be played by Peggy Criswell, with a supporting cast of elves, dolls, poinsettas, mistletoe, holly, jack-in-the-box, gifts, wind-up toys, train, Santa Claus, merchants, housewives, candles and characters in the nativity scenes.

The cast of 75 boys and girls will be in complete costume. Assisting with the costuming are mothers of the children and aiding in the production are the grade teachers, Mrs. Leo Groll, Mrs. Jay Endsley and Mrs. Wilbert Rengert, and Mrs. Robert Race, music supervisor.

Special yuletide music will be given by the high school orchestra preceding and during the program, and rhythm band numbers will be by grades one and two. The program will be concluded with special Christmas numbers by the boys glee club, girls glee club and mixed chorus.

Employment Down In Lima Westinghouse Co.

LIMA, O., Dec. 10 — One large Lima industry reported yesterday that it has laid off 800 employes since Jan. 1, but two others said their employment was up.

Westinghouse Electric Corp., which employed 3,500 last Jan. 1, said it dropped 800 workers—mostly women—because a backlog of orders for fractional horsepower motors has been virtually eliminated.

Lima-Hamilton Corp. said it has 1406 on its payroll, compared with 1375 on Jan. 1.

NORTH ELECTRIC ASKS CITY AID AT KENTON

Claims Hazards Block Plant Expansion.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Dec. 10—Contemplated expansion of The North Electric Co. plant here which would involve construction of an additional building and hiring of 200 more employes, depends largely upon what assistance the city of Kenton can give the factory in eliminating several hazards at and near the plant site.

G. B. Watkins, manager of the plant made that statement in appealing to Kenton city council to improve fire protection facilities and streets in the factory area.

The plant which manufactures telephone equipment, is working on a 24-hour a day schedule, employing some 460 persons on three shifts, Mr. Watkins explained. In its buildings it has highly valuable technical equipment which it would take a long time and considerable expense to replace if lost by fire.

More water pressure is needed and that could be taken care of if a standpipe was installed. Rebuilding of several streets in the immediate area of the factory site also would eliminate serious traffic hazards, Mr. Watkins told council.

Councilmen promised to do everything possible to alleviate the objectionable situations outlined by the plant manager. But they said they had investigated possibilities of installing a standpipe but found construction prohibitive.

The matter was referred to the finance and street committees for further action.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

We can all profit from Errol Flynn's arrest for kicking a policeman in the shins . . . If we want to avoid brushes with the law let us stick to something safe like spying.

• • •

Although there's some indication that if spying continues to get undesirable publicity someone will have to be fined $5 and costs as an example to others.

• • •

It was particularly indelicate of this spy situation to reopen just as we were trying to concentrate on remembering Pearl Harbor . . . We can handle only one infamy at a time.

• • •

Mr. Flynn's mistake was that he had no pumpkins on him when arrested . . . Not even a couple of feet of microfilm.

• • •

Under the circumstances he would find it impossible to get a committee organized to march on Washington screaming "down with red herring investigations."

The New Governors

Young Gov. Talmadge Has Georgia Guessing

(Last of a series of 22 articles on new governors chosen in Nov 2 election).

By The Associated Press

ATLANTA, Dec 10 — Herman Talmadge has taken his long-sought seat as Georgia's governor. Many Georgians hardly know what to expect

Talmadge, 36, a politician, lawyer, farmer and former naval officer, has built a background of sharp contrasts

On the stump in rural Georgia he is a replica of his famed father, fiery Eugene Talmadge. He has the same rural drawl, the scarlet suspenders, the wad of tobacco, the unruly black forelock and the appeal for "white supremacy" that stamped old Gene's career.

Some Difference

But the younger Talmadge has something different In scores of quiet and sober speeches before civic clubs he is a serious advocate of better farming and expanding industry to bring progress to his state

Herman has never held office before, not legally, that is He claimed election by the legislature in 1946 after his father died before inauguration for a fourth term as governor.

Lieut Gov M E Thompson also claimed the office Talmadge forces changed locks in the capitol by night and seized executive quarters, but they departed quickly and quietly when the Georgia supreme court ruled for Thompson

Herman took his case to the people in Georgia's September Democratic primary, equivalent to election He won a big majority and took his seat Nov. 17

Trained Outdoors

Herman was raised on his father's rural barony, Sugar Creek farm, in south Georgia Hunting, fishing and riding were his ardent pursuits

He was a better-than-average student and a campus leader at the University of Georgia. He became his father's chief aide in Georgia's turbulent politics

During three years in the Navy young Herman vowed he was through with public life But when his father died he became the center of one of the most bitter political controversies in Georgia's history

Many observers say he has a chance to rule the roost in Georgia for many years Herman says "no comment" on his future

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

HARRY Underwood grinned widely at Dicky, and I knew that he, too, felt relief at having the conversation switched from my father's journey without the protection of the armored car. He had not yet looked at me since he had uttered the kindly falsehood—I was sure it was that—about my father's taking a disguise with him, but I knew he felt sure that I had believed his story, and I struggled mightily to get my "tell tale face" into lines of calm acceptance of his statement.

"Mine is strictly a watching and waiting role," he said. "He asked me to come back here, and check on you. Then, if you were all right, and didn't need me, he asked me to grab Lil and get the heck out of here back to our house, where we are to pack our things, ready to journey to the farmhouse without a second's delay, and then we are to sit and wait for whatever may turn up. I gathered, without his exactly saying so, that we might expect a visit from Miss Carlotta Carroll."

I gasped at that, and he nodded.

"Yes, it all fits in," he said. "Whether he means to needle her with the news of having captured a masculine caricature of her, or whether he's employing some more subtle means of sending her to our protective arms — she's taken a shine to Lil, you know—I can't tell, but—"

He paused, and Dicky hurled a quick question at him.

"You think Dad now definitely suspects her of being something different than she appears?" he asked. "But, good heavens, that means—"

His friend raised his hand protestingly.

"Don't go off the deep end over this," he said. "The Chief, I am sure, has some suspicion of her, but it's got to be a well-founded one before he acts on it. The mere fact that the man we captured has hair and eyes like Carlotta's, and features something the same, only sharper and thinner, doesn't mean much, although it's something that your father would probe very deeply But he knows as well as we do that people are often caricatures of others, or in fact with resemblances as close as twins have, without being in any way related He wouldn't condemn the gal on that score."

"But," Dicky said, "he wouldn't pass up the possibility that the marauder we captured might be Carlotta Carroll's brother, or her cousin."

"You're right there," Harry Underwood conceded. "He'd never pass up a bet like that In fact, I'm sure, although he didn't tell me a word, that he's preparing to camp on the gal's trail right now, and that that is the reason for this trip out of town"

"I'm inclined to agree with you," Dicky said, "but I don't like the idea of his going without the armored car, although, of course, he couldn't get very far on a sleuthing expedition with it But I am relieved that he took a disguise with him, and that the taximan was one he knew."

My self-control suddenly snapped.

"Why don't you tell me the truth?" I asked "I can stand it It's nice of you to try to spare me, but you both know Father didn't take any disguise with him"

Yule Tree in Store For Needy Children

Residents of Marion and the surrounding community will have an opportunity to help make Christmas a happy day for some less fortunate child by placing a gift under the large Christmas tree on the first floor at Uhler's department store

Designed to place a gift in the hands of every underprivileged child the community spirit is carried out through the sponsorship of the National Retail Dry Goods association which is undertaking a like project in every city in the United States The gifts will be distributed through the Salvation Army

Stores throughout the city are cooperating by displaying signs calling attention to the project and designating the place the gifts are to be left The gifts may be purchased at any store and left beneath the tree any time before March 21

Cooperating with the Uhler store are members of the youth committee of the Salvation Army, Cecil Gabler chairman and his committee Cutler McGrew, A T Allen, Judge Edward J Ruzzo and Rev R W Faulkner Mrs Gabler assisted by a group of workers, will be in charge of assembling the gifts regarding ages, articles, etc

The committee is stressing the need of clothing and is asking that the gifts be something in this line After the gifts are purchased the donor is asked to mark on the outside the name of the article and for what age child it is suited

The gifts will be given to the children by the parents, making it a real Christmas gift This will be done by asking the parents to call at the Salvation Army headquarters a few days before Christmas, Dec 23, to be exact, and the gifts will be given to them for presentation to the children The list of those to receive gifts will be made up by Miss Vivian Hall of the Marion County Welfare department Judge Ruzzo of the juvenile court and A T Allen, director of pupil personnel in the city schools

Columbus South's Height Tells On Harding by 66-31

By GEORGE SCOTT

A taller and faster Columbus South cage squad jumped off to a large early lead and held it to hand Harding a 66-31 defeat on the Bruin floor last night. The Prexies never did solve the problem of how to conquer their height disadvantage.

The Bulldogs overwhelmed the locals from the very start by putting in 21 points before Dick Thomas dropped a set shot for Harding's first tally. In the second quarter the Presidents fought back valiantly to rack up 11 points to South's 12. However, the second half was all Columbus again. The Southerners scored 34 points and Harding dropped 15.

To any fan in the packed Edison gym the story of the outcome was apparent early in the game. Many times in order to pass the Prexies had to bounce the ball under the waving arms of the South five that had three men as tall or taller than Harding's highest, Dick Clark. The Harding cagers seldom recovered from the backboards on rebounds—they couldn't jump that high. Combined with their height the bulldogs had speed and an effective passing attack. How fast were they? George Keel, Harding coach, said Frank Zubuvich, a guard, holds the record for the 100-yard dash in Columbus. And he hasn't slowed up a bit.

The Harding men lost by a lopsided score—there's no denying that. But they can look anyone in the eye. Not once, even when they were hopelessly behind, did they stop putting out their best. They fought right up to the last second as is proved by the fact that they scored 11 points in the last period to tie their high second quarter. Also they never disputed with the officials although they heard a large number of Marion fans booing and jeering throughout the last half.

Merle Daum was the Harding high man with six points and Dick Thomas was second with five. Bulldog center Harry Nicholson was the night's high man with 23 markers and Paul Ebert, forward was second with 16. Coach "Pug" Hood's men played a bangup game all the way through and the only regrettable thing is the Prexies had to be their victims.

It was a bad night all around for the locals. George Keel's reserves were beaten, 40-23. Gred Graham who plays a fast, aggressive game paced the Harding men in the loss by racking up seven points. This was just one less than the reserve high of eight chalked up by Bulldog center Oelgoetz.

Heath Paced Passers In College Football

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 — The 1948 college football season produced five forward passing and pass-catching records, but the trend was strictly away from the team "battery" combinations which dominated in 1947.

Leading passer, of course, was Nevada's Stan Heath, who set a passing yardage record with 2,095, and a touchdown passing record with 22 for six-pointers.

Leading catcher was Johnny "Red" O'Quinn of Wake Forest, who caught 39 for 605 yards.

The only team pair to come near the top was Tulsa's two Jims —Finks throwing and Ford receiving. Finks ranked second behind the phenomenal Heath as a chucker with 115 completions in 214 attempts for 1,376 yards, compared to Heath's 126 completions in 222 flips. Ford ranked fifth in receiving with 35 caught for 403 yards.

Second high touchdown among the receivers was another All-America end, Dick Rifenburg of Michigan, who caught 22 and scored on eight. Those catching seven touchdown tosses were O'Quinn, Jim Dieckelman, Holy Cross, and Chuck Nelson, Brown.

Among the passers, 35 completed more than Dick Gilman of Kansas, but only Heath outstripped him in payoff pitches. Gilman threw 14 scoring passes while completing 49 of 127 throws, or an average of approximately one touchdown every three times he found a receiver.

Tying Gilman at 14 were Walter Brennan, Holy Cross, and Bobby Thomason, VMI. Ed Songin, Boston College, and Ed Finn, Brown, had 13 apiece. Knotted with a dozen were Jim Walthall, West Virginia; Charlie Justice, All-America from North Carolina, Auburn Lambeth, Davidson, and Mel Olix, Miami (Ohio).

Gil Johnson of Southern Methodist had the best completion percentage, .608.

Georgia's Johnny Rauch, though 10th in completions with 71, ranked third in yards, with 1,307.

Baksi, Charles In Heavy Bout Tonight

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—There is a thin possibility that tonight's 15-round bout at the Garden between Joe Baksi and Ezzard Charles will produce a logical challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight title.

That, at least, is the idea behind it. If either man scores a knockout, then he is fairly certain to find himself in the same ring with Joe next June, getting hit. A good, clean decision might serve equally well.

If Charles, the lean Cincinnati Negro, and Baksi, an awkward clouter from Kulpmont, Pa., put on a poor fight and irritate the $12 customers, they both might as well go home and quit dreaming.

Lippy's In Trouble with Happy Again

By The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 10—Leo Durocher is in hot water with Commissioner A. B. Chandler again.

Although the commissioner was reluctant to talk about the matter, it was learned that the manager of the New York Giants might face another suspension, or be given a sizeable fine.

Leo, who only a year ago ended a season-long exile imposed upon him by the commissioner for "conduct detrimental to baseball," has been ordered by Chandler to appear for a hearing on the "Freddy Fitzsimmons case." The inquiry is set for Tuesday, Dec. 14, at the Blackstone hotel in Chicago.

Fitzsimmons, who came to work as coach under Leo several weeks ago, while on the Boston Braves' reserve list, also has been summoned before the commissioner. In addition, Chandler has ordered New York president Horace Stoneham to send another representative. Stoneham selected Edgar Feeley, treasurer of the club.

Must Prove No "Tampering"

Feeley and Durocher will have to convince Chandler there was no "Tampering" with the former Giant pitcher when he switched from Boston to New York, and Fitz will be asked to explain why he did not inform the Brave officials of his intention to make the change.

Disturbed by whisperings that his demand for a hearing is nothing more than persecution of Durocher, the commissioner last night denied that he was "gunning" for the former Brooklyn Dodger pilot who switched to the Giants in the middle of last season.

"It is not a simple matter that can be passed off lightly," Chandler said. "Evidence has been presented to me that the New York ball club tampered with Fitzsimmons even before the 1948 season ended. If such is the case, that constitutes an outright breach of baseball law, and I would not be doing my job if I were to overlook the matter.

While Chandler declined to discuss the possible outcome of the "Fitzsimmons case" until he had weighed all the evidence, the feeling prevailed that neither Durocher, Fitzsimmons, nor the New York club would get off lightly.

Chandler was in town to address the annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball clubs which closes today.

Rule on Radio

Television and radio occupied the attention of the minors at yesterday's important executive session. A new amendment which would, in effect, ban any network baseball either by radio or television was adopted by unanimous vote.

It was the first time the minors had made a definite rule on radio and television. They had been protected in the past by major league action which recognized territorial rights. Under the major league rule, the minor league club involved was free to consent to the broadcast of its games, or refuse, subject to the provision for arbitration by the commissioner in the amendment passed by the 54 voting leagues.

Under the new rule, radio and television broadcasts would be limited to "the immediate area within the 'home' territory of the club. That 'home territory' was defined to include all land within the circumference of a circle having a radius of 50 miles and its center at the ball park.

No Bonus Change

All proposals to change the "bonus rule" were defeated, including Cincinnati's idea of a new $6,000 maximum payment in all classifications before a man could be designated a "bonus player."

As matters stand, payments are regulated on a graduated scale, ranging from $400 in class D to $6,000 in class A. If the scale is exceeded, the player carries a "bonus" player tag for the rest of his career and his movements are severely restricted.

A draft of the Southern Association then came to toss out the bonus rule altogether, but it was defeated. So was a proposal by the Boston Red Sox which would have permitted "bonus players" to be optioned to the minors.

The rule forbidding signing of high school players until after their graduation was clarified. In the future they may be signed when the class with which they entered high school has graduated.

COLLEY FAVORED CHANGE

By The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 10—Frank Colley, president of the Ohio-Indiana baseball league, said last night he favored the proposed amendment to the baseball rule for minor league players.

The proposal failed, 33-21. It was offered by the Cincinnati Reds.

A draft of the Southern Association then proposed that the entire bonus rule be abandoned. This failed, 44-7. Colley said he was among those opposing the amendment.

Attending the National Association of Minor Baseball leagues meeting with Colley were these Ohio-Indiana league representatives:

Harry Arnold of Newark, vice president of the league; Robert Hess, Springfield general manager; Ray Lange, Lima, O., owner, and Dick Mewes, Muncie, Ind., business manager.

ST. MARY CAGERS IN AWAY GAME TONIGHT

Will Meet Columbus Rosary in Quest of 2nd Win.

St. Mary's cagers will meet Columbus Rosary tonight in their third road contest in a row. The Irish have a one and one record and coach Forest Sharrock hopes to break the deadlock with a win by switching two of his key men.

Bill Merchant, the squad's top scorer, has been moved from forward to guard and Ed Moloney, a terrific rebound man has been switched from guard to forward. Coach Sharrock explained that Merchant does most of his shooting from a guard position and Ed Moloney will be able to increase his effectiveness as a forward.

The squad which has been working on the fast break took its last practice session yesterday afternoon in preparation for its second jaunt to Columbus. Last time in their season opener the Irish stopped Columbus St. Mary, 31-26. Both Bob Armbruster and Dick Gunder will not make the trip because of illness.

Treeze announced an addition to the St. Mary schedule. The Irish will play Fredericktown Feb. 1.

Springfield Signs New Player-Manager

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., Dec. 10—Catcher Anthony Ravish signed last night as playing-manager of the Springfield Giants in the Class D Ohio-Indiana baseball league.

Ravish, 31, of Hudson, N. Y., managed Quebec in the Class C Canadian-American league last season.

Club Secretary Bob Ireland announced the appointment. Rufus Jackson managed Springfield last season. His contract was not renewed, Ireland said.

Citation Set To Dip Into Tanforan Till

By The Associated Press

SAN BRUNO, Calif., Dec. 10—It's heavily-favored Citation against a so-so field tomorrow in the $50,000 added Tanforan handicap.

The Calumet Farm three-year-old is expected to attract 30,000 racing fans when he goes postward against at least six western horses.

On trust, the leading California-bred money-winner, and Please Me are listed as very doubtful starters.

Net to the winner, in the event of a seven-horse field, will be $31,800. The second horse will receive $10,000, the third $7,500 and the fourth $5,000.

A win for Citation, regarded by fans as a virtual certainty, would boost his earnings to approximately $860,000, about $50,000 short of the world money leader. Stymie now in retirement. His regular jockey, Eddie Arcaro, will be aboard.

Stranahan, Unknown Pro Lead Miami Open

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 10—A field of 139 of the nation's best golfers went out today in an effort to overtake an unknown professional and a leading amateur in the $10,000 Miami Open tournament.

Stan Straszowski, Winsted, Conn., pro, and Frank Stranahan, Toledo, O., amateur, carded four under par 66's yesterday to lead the way into the second round of the 72-hole event over the 6,735-yard Miami Springs course.

Russia's navigable waterways total about 60,000 miles in length.

BIG NINE OPENS WINTER MEETING

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 — Western conference athletic directors and school officials opened their four-day winter meeting today and television of football games and Michigan State's membership bid were two of the principal items of business.

Another problem to be considered is a scholarship plan which limits drastically the amount of aid to athletes. Faculty representatives also may discuss suggested changes in the Big Nine-Pacific Coast Rose Bowl contract.

No announcement on Michigan State's bid to the Big Nine membership is expected before Sunday, since the faculty men—not the coaches or athletic directors—do not begin their sessions until Saturday. The Spartans, however, are reportedly certain of admission by a 5 to 4 vote of the conference's policy making group. Last night President James L. Morrill of the University of Minnesota said he hoped the Spartans "get in."

The problem of whether standard rates should be charged by all Big Nine member schools for television rights is one which will be discussed by the policy makers. The question of renting game films for televison purposes also will be debated.

Faculty representatives may hear reports of the strained relations between Iowa and Minnesota. Feeling ran so high in Iowa City and Minneapolis after Minnesota's Bernie Bierman took exception to heckling by Iowa fans there were rumors of a break-off in sports relations.

On Monday the athletic directors and football coaches will arrange schedules for 1950-51-52 at a joint meeting.

Muddy Ruel Moves Into Front Office

By The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 10—Herold (Muddy) Ruel, a baseball veteran of 30 years, will resume his coaching job with the Cleveland Indians and move into the club's front office as a farm system supervisor, President Bill Veeck said today.

Veeck made the announcement at the minor league meeting here and explained that Ruel would assist Vice-President Hank Greenberg in supervision of the Tribe's farm clubs.

Ruel, a shrewd baseball veteran who has spent more than 30 years in the game as an outstanding catcher, coach, manager and for a period of time as assistant to Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler, joined the Indians a year ago with the understanding that he eventually would move into the front office. He was a bullpen coach with the world champions last year.

"Muddy wanted a job in the farm system," Veeck said. "We had that understanding when he joined us last season. His duties are not yet clearly defined, but he will help Hank supervise the direction and training of the farm clubs."

Ruel's transfer followed the appointment of Steve O'Neill, deposed Detroit Tiger manager, as Tribe coach.

Manager Lou Boudreau now has three assistants. However, Bill McKechnie and Mel Harder, Boudreau's other two aides last season, may not return to the coaching lines. McKechnie has considered retirement because of ill health, and Harder may also be shifted into the farm system as an instructor for minor league pitchers.

Veeck left the minor league convention last night, heading for Chicago, where he will huddle with American league executives again next week. The major league meetings will be held there next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Veeck was rumored to be plotting a three-way deal with the Boston Red Sox and St. Louis [illegible] Browns, which would send Manager Bob Dillinger, who came to Cleveland from the Browns, to Boston, Outfielder Ken Keltner would go to Boston and Johnny Pesky, former guardian of the Red Sox would go to St. Louis.

Before the off-season market has closed no deal has been made but he did hint that he might be able to do business with the New York Yankees.

It was rumored that the Yanks were seeking Tribe first baseman Eddie Robinson in a swap for either outfielder Johnny Lindell or catcher Yog Berra.

DARKNESS SLOWS UP COLLEGE CAGE CARD

By The Associated Press

One Ohio college basketball game was called because of darkness last night and another postponed for the same reason.

It happened in the Cleveland arena Kenyon college was leading Penn, 57-40, with nine minutes left in the opening game of a doubleheader card when the lights went out.

Most of the downtown section and east side also were plunged into darkness. Fire had knocked out a Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. power plant.

The arena was dark for 50 minutes and then the lights came on briefly before going out again for 12 minutes. Penn conceded victory to Kenton after the lights flicked on again.

But the crowd of 5,470 was still hopeful of seeing the second game—between John Carroll and the University of Detroit. The fans waited another hour because everybody agreed the lights weren't bright enough to play basketball. Then Al Sutphin, arena president, announced the game was postponed.

That zany development overshadowed seven other games involving Ohio clubs.

Wilberforce State tangled with its cross-campus rival, Wilberforce university, and scored its third win in three games with the church-supported school, 83-49.

Ohio Wesleyan scored three points in the last seven seconds to clip Otterbein at Westerville, 60-58. Guard Russ Ramey sank the game-winning field goal. Jud Millhon of Wesleyan and Wilbur Woods of Otterbein each notched 23 points.

Elsewhere, Ohio Northern unleashed a fourth-quarter fast break to defeat Huntington, Ind., 50-40, in the opening game of the Taylor intercollegiate tourney at Upland, Ind.; unbeaten Akron scored its second win by thumping St. Francis, 63-53; Salem (W. Va.) ran away from Rio Grande at Salem, 75-54; Marietta toppled Fairmont (W.Va.), 57-39, behind Bob Erwin's 22-point shooting, and Mount Union opened its campaign with a 44-34 defeat of Ashland at Alliance.

LOUIS VS. CONN TONIGHT

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 — Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, who knocked out Billy Conn in Yankee Stadium in June, 1946, will meet the Pittsburgh Irishman again tonight in a six-round exhibition match in International amphitheater.

CLEVELAND CLUB TO HONOR PAUL BROWN

By International News Service

CLEVELAND, Dec. 10—Paul Brown, head coach of the champion Cleveland Browns, will be honored by the Touchdown club of Cleveland at an "appreciation luncheon" Dec. 21.

The banquet will come just two days after the Browns clash at the Cleveland stadium with the eastern division champs of the All-America conference for the 1948 title.

Carl Brubaker, president of the Touchdown club, said that "Brown has done a tremendous job in building the Cleveland team into a great attraction in pro football and the Touchdown club wants to show its appreciation."

Brown last night said that he wasn't interested in coaching a team of professional all-stars for a proposed bowl game with a college all-star team in Baltimore New Year's day.

According to a report from Baltimore, a group of Washington sportsmen, headed by Al Lockhart of the U.S. Automobile association, would promote the game for charity.

"Our season doesn't end for another week, and furthermore I'll be in Florida for the Orange bowl game on New Year's day," Brown said.

Bishops Take Thriller From Otterbein, 60-58

By The United Press

WESTERVILLE, O., Dec. 10—Ohio Wesleyan had to throw everything it had into the game to nose out a fighting Otterbein college basketball squad, 60 to 58, before a crowd of 1,600 here last night.

Not until the final gun had sounded was the winner definitely decided. With just 39 seconds to go, Perry Reall dropped in a basket to give the Otters a 58-57 lead. Then Wesleyan guard Russ Ramsey stole the ball and dribbled in for a lay-up shot that gave the Delaware team a 59-58 margin.

Just as the gun sounded, Ray Chadwell of Otterbein fouled Jack Smith. As game officials kept the spectators from the floor, Smith sank his free throw to give Wesleyan the two-point margin.

The Bishops were in the lead most of the game although the halftime score was 31-31.

Scoring honors went to Jud Millhon of Wesleyan and Wilbur Woods of Otterbein with 23 points each.

COMMERCIAL, MPS IN LOP-SIDED WINS

Industrial league play opened at the Marion YMCA last night with two severe drubbings.

Commercial Steel walloped Portlak Steel 62-21 and Marion Power Shovel blitzed Aetna Steel 75-23. Reeser of Commercial was the night's high scorer. He hit the loop for 13 baskets and three free tosses for a total of 29 points, eight more than Pollak collected. The Pollak squad was hard hit because of the loss of two of their best men, Jim Ruth and Tom Millison who had to work.

Every man on the Marion Power Shovel team tallied for at least a point in the second quarter of the evening. An explanation for the rout can be seen in the Alloy shooting. Time and again their tosses hit the iron rim, there and then dropped off. Stanford led the Shovel men with eight buckets and two free throws for a total of 18 points.

Shoe Gets Results In Wrestling Match

A misplaced shoe gave Martino Angelo and Al Alexander victory over Dale Wayne and Dutch Schultz in tag wrestling at the Marion Armory last night.

Both teams had taken a fall when Alexander jumped into the ring to aid his partner Angelo in the deciding encounter. Angelo wrestled barefooted but wore his shoes to the ring. Seeing his chance Schultz ran over and grabbed one of Angelo's shoes. He swung but hit the wrong man when Angelo ducked. His partner Wayne got the blow and down he went with Angelo on top for the pin.

Angelo stopped Wayne in the single matches and Schultz won over Alexander. Jack and Don Wilson wrestled to a ten minute draw in the opener.

COURT INTERVENTION IN JAP TRIALS RAPPED

By International News Service

PARIS, Dec. 10—France's top expert on international law criticized today the decision of the U. S. supreme court to intervene in the Tokyo war crimes trials as a "terrible blow to the prestige and future of international law."

The first, Dr. Henri Donnedieu De Vabres, said the decision is also a blow at the United Nations resolution condemning genocide which was passed unanimously by the UN yesterday. He said:

"How can permanent international jurisdiction exist if it can be appealed to a national tribunal."

Dr. De Vabres, a member of the Nuernberg tribunal which condemned Field Marshal Goering and other high Nazis to death, voiced his criticism on the heels of similar statements by Chinese and Dutch experts.

The Frenchman described himself as "astonished" by the U. S. supreme court decision. He added "No precedent exists for the review of the verdict of an international military tribunal by a national court."

Dr. De Vabres pointed out that under the statute on which the Nuernberg tribunal was based, no appeal could be made to a national court.

Kansas, No Longer Dry, Is Baffled by Change

By The United Press

CROFT, Kan. — Kansas may have voted out its constitutional prohibition but as the "bone dry" law has not been erased yet from the books, bootleggers are being careful.

A Croft housewife went to the grocery. When she returned she found in her shopping bag, in addition to her food purchases, a pint of whiskey.

She recalled that a Dickens had entered the store while she was shopping. Apparently a bootlegger dropped his bottle into her bag.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—Sen. Robert A. Taft's friends in congress are confident he will retain his post as chairman of the senate GOP policy committee, regardless of attempts to oust him.

"There's no one else to fill the job," said one Taft supporter.

Ever since election day there have been Republican rumblings of a "palace-coup" house-cleaning. Some so-called Republican liberals have been talking over strategy to promote a shakeup. But so far they have come forward with no candidate to challenge Sen. Taft's leadership on domestic affairs.

Sen. Taft, it was learned, has advanced his return to this country from a European vacation. He'll land in New York aboard the liner America next Thursday, well in advance of the reconvening of congress.

This may be a tip-off that he intends to fight for his leadership role, if necessary.

Those advocating a change of command count on Sen. Taft's withdrawing voluntarily.

But sources close to the Ohioan say he would be reluctant to take a back seat, particularly when legislation with which he has been closely affiliated comes up for discussion.

Your Good Health

By DR. IRVING S. CUTTER

It is always [illegible] suffer from [illegible] affects any [illegible] and it behaves us [illegible] alert for symptoms of any [illegible] tions affecting them. Take deafness, for example. It is not caused by any one thing, but by a large group of conditions. Deafness may be produced by diseases of the nervous system, by infections such as [illegible] out of order, or in the [illegible] consist of diseases [illegible] poisoning or, at times, even by syphilis.

In certain cases, particularly in people of advanced years, Dr. Merrill W. Micheis thinks that a lack of vitamin B may be a factor of importance. Hardening of the arteries of the inner ear is known to be a factor in some cases.

Seventy-eight patients were treated for hearing difficulties by giving them combined vitamins and amino acids. The amino acids are the substances which make up proteins, found particularly in such foods as meat, milk and eggs. Of these patients, 57 showed improvement.

Another study was made by Dr. Micheis, using 21 patients, 21 of whom followed completely the program outlined for them. Seventeen of these patients had deafness due to nervous disorders and four had a condition called otosclerosis in which there is a hardening of certain of the ear structures.

The patients were given six injections into a muscle of the vitamin-amino acid preparation over a two-week period. In addition, they were given a similar preparation to be taken by mouth three times a day. Prior to the beginning of the treatment, the hearing was checked and a recheck made after a two-week period. Of the 21 patients who completed the treatment, seven showed definite improvement in the hearing of sufficient degree to be noted; five showed slight improvement, while nine showed no benefit. Ringing in the ears which was an outstanding system in 18 of the patients, was significantly improved or cured in 11.

It would appear from this limited study that this type of treatment may have a beneficial effect on the hearing power in certain persons. It is felt that such improvement as is produced by the treatment will remain permanent. Perhaps, if the treatment is carrie out over a longer period of time, even greater benefits might appear in certain cases.

This treatment certainly would seem worth trying in those affected with hearing defects.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1948

Please, Mr. President

THE department of justice, says President Truman, will follow the law in its handling evidence that the United States was the victim of treason by government employes. As far as he is concerned, Mr. Truman still thinks the congressional inquiry into Communist spying is a red herring.

It is his privilege to think so. But for a man who prides himself on keeping in touch with what his countrymen are thinking, Mr. Truman must admit that his thinking raises a broad question in their minds.

Does he question the right of a congressional committee to investigate the activities of spies?

The house committee to investigate un-American activities, both under Democratic and Republican control of congress, has done some highly questionable things. But it also has done something which couldn't have been done by any other means; it has aroused the country to a realization of Communist interference with the security of the United States. It has aroused the American people to a realization that foreign governments have sent agents here to do mischief in the past and undpubtedly are doing mischief now. Was the investigation of the German-American bund a red herring?

President Truman would be well advised if he'd forget the phrase "red herring." Communism is a present menace in the United States. It was a menace in the past, and it will be a menace in the future. Any statement which implies that there's nothing to it—that it's just a red herring—is too foolish to be worthy of the White House.

Unrepresented Labor

LOOSE and careless use of the word "labor" has caused serious distortion in the popular idea of the strength of the minority of American employes who belong to unions.

The fact is that out of approximately 60,000,000 persons employed in the United States, probably not more than 15,000,000, or about 25 per cent, are members of unions. Yet, spokesmen for unions usually represent themselves as reflecting the opinion of labor as a whole. In many cases, as John L. Lewis has discovered when he dabbled in politics, and as other leaders have found out to their sorrow when they called for showdowns on controversial issues within their own unions, labor's self-styled spokesman do not even speak for their own unions.

This misrepresentation of the views and interests of working people grows more serious in proportion to the influence which unions are able to bring to bear on legislation. In the case of the Taft-Hartley act, for example, which they represent as being hateful to all labor and therefore subject to repeal by the 81st congress, the unions actually represent only a small fraction of the working people of the country. While it goes without saying that the fraction is powerful, it does not go without saying that it is representative of the majority of working people in the United States.

The labor majority in this country is unrepresented as such. It has no lobbies, no corps of legal retainers to look for loopholes and no political action groups to fight its battles.

File for 1950

IN THEIR thoughtful inspection of hopes that fell into ruins last Nov. 2, Republicans have taken another long look at the Maine election last September.

The modernized adage about Maine is that if it goes better than 65 per cent Republican, so goes the nation—not in the same but in relative proportion. In 1946, Maine went 67 per cent GOP. Two months later, congress went Republican. In 1928, year of the last Republican landslide, Maine went 69 per cent Republican. Through the New Deal era, Maine Republicanism languished; in 1932 it skidded to 49 per cent. In 1944 it was back to 62 per cent, but that wasn't enough. The Democrats won again.

Margaret Chase Smith, the state's new Republican senator, has kept close track of the Maine vote. Though she herself polled 71.4 per cent of it in September, she was smart enough to see that her percentage wasn't typical. A more typical percentage, she pointed out before Nov. 2, was the 65.5 per cent polled by the GOP candidate for governor. There was no margin of safety there, she warned. In fact, according to her private calculations, it meant that Democrats would knock off both the presidency and control of congress. Senator Smith's predicting ability will be in great demand along about September in 1950 and 1952. Or was it only a woman's intuition?

Did You Know

Figures based on U.S. government specifications for an adequate diet indicate that such a diet for every American would have cost $17.5 billion in 1940 compared with actual expenditures of $16.4 billion by the American people for food in that year.

Documental Mysteries

Conjectures About Stolen State Papers

WHAT were the big mysteries of 1937 and 1938 which cause officials and former officials of the department of state to say that the publication of stolen documents would be prejudicial to the interests of the United States?

The assumption is that many of the documents did not reach any other government while other documents did. Until it is clearly established what information was contained in the stolen letters and notes, the public can not know the exact reasons behind the suppression.

It may be inferred, however, that the documents have a bearing on the effort which the United States was making in 1937 and 1938 to use its diplomatic influence to avert a possible conflict in Europe. It will be recalled that the Munich conference in 1938 was considered to have been an "appeasement" by Britain and France and that the Hitler regime won its biggest diplomatic triumph at that meeting. Just what part the United States may have played in assisting in that settlement has never been made public, though it was common knowledge that the late President Roosevelt endeavored by telephone or otherwise to exert as much influence as he could on Mussolini to keep the central European situation peaceful.

* * *

THE MANNER in which Czechoslovakia was abandoned by the Western Powers in the face of Hitler's demands is still vividly recalled, but it is doubtful whether revelation of any part the United States may have played in supporting the Chamberlain - Daladier "appeasement" policy could at the moment seem of more importance to the people of Czechoslovakia than the actual loss of their freedom under Russian Communist rule.

Possibly the fear that the Russians may distort the meaning of the documents and foment anti-American feeling in the Balkans may be the basic reason why the material contained in the stolen missives is being suppressed at this time.

What is most important, however, is the possibility that other governments were able during 1939 and 1940 to read the secret codes used by the department of state in communicating with American ambassadors abroad. This may have a relationship to important negotiations between Russia and Britain or between Germany and Russia prior to the Hitler-Stalin pact. The public generally isn't familiar with the fact that copies of all messages sent to and from foreign countries are as a rule sent to the governments in those countries as a matter of routine by the telegraph companies. But these messages, when put into code through cipher devices, can not be read by governments abroad unless they have the key to the codes.

* * *

THE FAVORITE WAY of "breaking" a code is to watch for the publication of the actual text of some statement or pronouncement and then compare it with the coded message to ascertain, if possible, what each cipher or sequence of ciphers really means. This is why governments usually paraphrase and change the order of sentences in the event that private messages previously sent in code are subsequently made public. If it's an international agreement or something likely to be made available to the press later on, a type of code is used which isn't particularly secret. There are all sorts of codes, and some are intended merely to keep items from the press for a brief period of time and there is no objection to governments learning the contents.

The really tight codes, of course, are reserved for highly secret messages and exchanges. If spies can get copies of the originals of these messages, it is a simple matter to "break" the code by comparing the original with the coded message in some foreign capital.

* * *

THE BIG JOB in the code world always is to get the kind of system that nobody else can decipher even if he has access to the original. It takes months and sometimes years to decipher the more difficult codes, and after a reasonable lapse of time governments change their codes. This, however, does not prevent foreign governments from going back into the files, if they "break" a code, and thus learn the trend of policy on matters not yet concluded.

The extent to which the American codes were subsequently broken as a result of the theft of the documents presented to the house un-American activities committee by self-confessed spies will probably never be known, because it is to the interest of the United States not to yield any information on codes if it can possibly be avoided.

Control of The Ruhr

By Raymond Moley

THE Ruhr, with its vast industrial potential, is the key to the prosperity of western Europe. But the facts so far show how absurd it is to operate such a region through the divergent ideas of three nations. This applies specifically to the Ruhr coal mine.

Summed up, the facts are these: Britain is too inefficient to operate the mines. France is afraid to let the Germans operate them. And the United States authorities are getting tired of paying not only for British inefficiency but for French fear.

It was not until last year that the United States was able to take a hand in the management of the Ruhr. This was done with the full consent of the British, who realized their incapacity to carry on alone. In the past months they have been in full agreement with the American idea of restoring the mines to German management. There is a bit of irony in this, since the Attlee Socialists have pressed for nationalization in Britain while they have moved toward private management in Germany. And now, thoroughly alarmed at the thought of German recovery, the national assembly of France is trying to keep responsibility out of German hands.

* * *

THREE AND A HALF years of occupation have brought German mines back to only about three-quarters of wartime production. And this despite a considerably larger number of workers, extra deliveries of food and more incentives for full work. The general manager of the Ruhr mines, one Kost, recently reported that the production of bituminous coal is at 65 per cent of the prewar figure. Reduced to production per worker, the figure before the war was two tons per shift per worker. After the first World War, before the advent of great mechanical improvements, it was one ton per worker. Now, it is one and a third ton per worker. Kost points out further that postwar mining has only taken place in the best coal seams. This is a most short-sighted policy, for it means that 20 per cent of the coal in the poorer seams thus neglected remains in the earth and is definitely lost.

Denazification has meant that the great majority of former German foremen and mining engineers have not been and are not being used because they were Nazis.

* * *

THE PRESENT EFFORT of American and British authorities is to grant a measurable return of the mines to private management. This does not mean the return of the mines to their former owners, but by other incentives to grant larger and larger scope to private management under strict Allied supervision.

American interest in Ruhr coal production is vital. The more coal Germany can export, directly or indirectly in manufactured goods, the less American money will need to be spent in the importing countries.

There is no disposition to minimize the fears of the French. But it can be contended that public ownership can be combined with private management operating under special incentives of profit. This has been done in German electricity production and in much of German transportation even before Hitler.

German know-how is essential to the reconstruction of the complicated industrial mechanisms of the Ruhr Basin. Even American know-how would fail, because American mining problems differ essentially from those of Germany. But the American principle of private management is essential, and that is what Americans are trying to install.

Speaking of Press Influence

From San Antonio Evening News

BECAUSE 77 per cent of the daily newspapers in the country supported Governor Dewey in the last campaign, comment has been received on the "decline of newspaper influence."

Governor Earl Long of Louisiana found, in the recent election, that newspapers do have an influence, and is frank to say so.

At Baton Rouge, Nov. 10, commenting on the defeat of nine constitutional amendments he favored, Long said, "Only 325,000 votes in all were cast and when a full expression of the people is not obtained the Longs have never had a chance to carry an election in Louisiana. Of these 325,000 votes . . . the cities of New Orleans, Baton Rouge and Shreveport voted in excess of 50 percent of the total . . . This indicates to me and to you that these cities where the daily press is widely circulated were largely responsible for the defeat of the first nine amendments."

If the larger city newspapers of Louisiana were successful in defeating the Long amendments, one of which would have given the governor political control of the state's educational system, it is greatly to their credit. Exposure of possible consequences from voting for a fair-sounding but inherently radical measure is a newspaper obligation to its readers.

Newspaper readers frequently do not approve candidates or measures their favorite daily supports. The fact they do not do so is fair evidence that daily newspaper reading encourages independence in thinking—one of the most valuable assets of American democracy.

More than one politician has found that reading daily newspapers does have influence on election results.

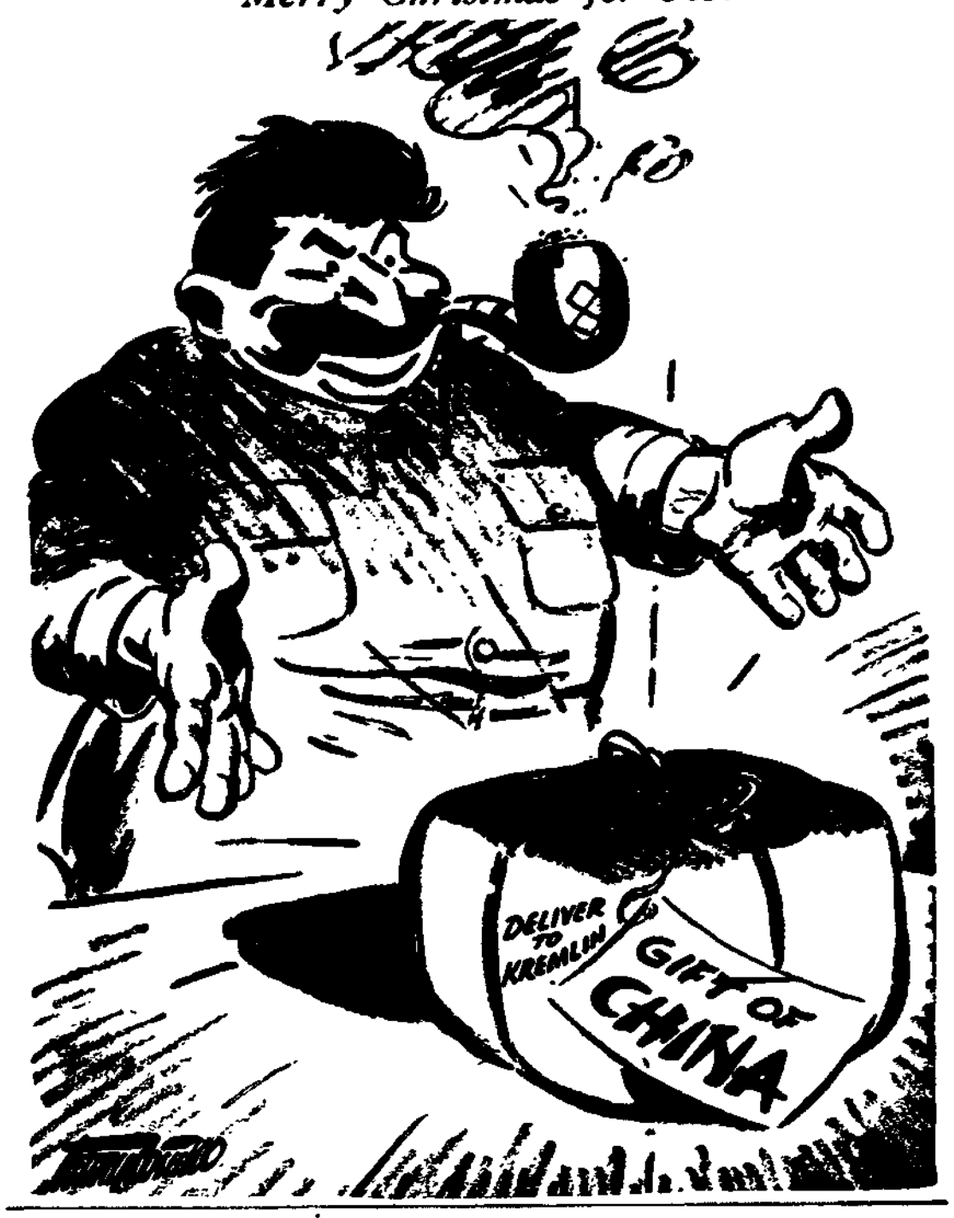
Merry Christmas for Joe?



From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Dec. 10, 1938.

Gaston B. Means, who was serving a 16-year sentence in a Missouri federal institution for defrauding Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean of $104,000 in her efforts to ransom the kidnaped and murdered Charles A. Lindberg Jr., was near death of a heart ailment.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Rowland of Windsor street celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary with a party at their home.

A crowd of more than 600 persons attended the "fun parade" held by Co. D, 166th Infantry at the armory. Entertainment included two basketball games, round and square dancing and five acts of amateur tap dancing by Miss Jean Swope and eight of her pupils, Shirley Ann Kyle, Betty Lou Jones, Josephine Manzo, Bonnie Lou Kemmerly, Betty Ann Layman, Arlene Hill, Jane Ann Gabler and Eileen Thibaut.

Twenty-two residents of Morral took a civil service examination for the position of postmaster. Mrs. Mattie Richards, who had held the position since July 15, 1922, had resigned.

First shipment of Christmas trees was received in Marion. The supply was ample and the quality of trees unusually high. Prices ranged from 40 cents to $2.50, about the same as the previous year.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Dec. 10, 1928.

Diplomats and government officials representing this and foreign countries joined citizens of Dayton in honoring Orville and Wilbur Wright on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their historic first airplane flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C.

George B. Scofield, judge of the common pleas court, was elected president of the County Law Library association.

Mrs. Cliff Noble and son Warren of Detroit were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Moran of Brenner court.

Mrs. Bertha Baldauf of Los Angeles, Calif., was spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hart of Washington avenue.

Members of the Arbor Vitae club and their husbands and families gave a surprise party for Mr. and Mrs. George Deal at their home on Uncapher and Merkel avenues, celebrating their silver wedding anniversary.

Now—The Parking Map!

As a service to motorists, the Port of New York Authority has distributed a map showing where and when to park in lower and midtown Manhattan.

Locations of all off-street parking places, both public garages and parking lots in the area from the lower end of the island—the Battery—to 59th street—Central Park, are indicated in color on the map. In addition, the parking guide shows at a glance the areas in which curb parking is permitted in accordance with posted signs.

Prepared with the cooperation of New York's police and license departments, the map is the most up-to-date Manhattan parking guide available. Nearly 500 parking garages and lots were visited by Port Authority representatives in order to verify street locations of all public parking facilities.

Maps are given to motorists at all authority-operated bridges and tunnels, as well as at service stations along main routes leading into New York.

Chambers and Hiss

By George E. Sokolsky

NO ONE has more to lose than Whittaker Chambers; no one is in greater personal peril than Whittaker Chambers. He has definitely placed himself in legal and physical jeopardy. This he has done willingly and knowingly.

I have never met Whittaker Chambers, although I have been hearing much about him for 10 or 12 years. I never saw his old set of teeth or his new set which Alger Hiss used as identification. I also do not know Alger Hiss, although I have heard considerable about him and his brother, Donald, since 1934 or thereabouts.

A group of my friends who are ex-Communists and ex-fellow travelers say that Whittaker Chambers is a patriotic American who is capable of the greatest personal sacrifices for his country; that he is contrite over the harm he had done in the past and that his compensation for sacrifices is adequate if the espionage is disclosed and if steps are taken to prevent similar espionage at another time. In fact, one of these ex-Communists, a man of the finest integrity, has suggested this article.

* * *

ON THE OTHER HAND, personal friends for whom I have equal regard know Alger Hiss well. They refuse to believe that he did or knowingly did betray his country. The most they are willing to say is that the atmosphere in the Harvard Law school when Alger Hiss studied there was such that most of the young men adopted a radical trend and that he may have succumbed to that atmosphere.

In view of the great risk that Whittaker Chambers has taken, certainly Alger Hiss ought to come clean, and that he has not done. He is adopting the lawyer's attitude that he will admit nothing until it is established, as he failed to admit that he even knew Chambers until he literally looked at his teeth and, finding them different, gave that as the reason for not being able to identify a man who actually shared his apartment. That made a very bad impression on me. Frankly, I do not believe the Hiss story.

* * *

ON THE OTHER HAND, the Hiss attitude justifies, in my mind, Chambers' holding onto the purloined documents and microfilms. It is the only proof that he had that he was not telling one of the most fantastic lies in history. The documentary evidence illegally in his possession, and illegally withheld by him, alone gave veracity to his tale of treason in which he participated and which he disclosed to his detriment. It must be remembered that he voluntarily made his disclosure in 1939 to Adolf A. Berle, then undersecretary of state, through the mediation of Isaac Don Levine.

Chambers risked his own arrest when he talked to Berle. Why he was not arrested and why the whole case was not broken in 1939 has not been explained. It was Berle's obligation to notify certainly the FBI and other security agencies and they should have pounced upon Chambers immediately. Who stopped whom and why? It is even more important to have that cleared up than any other phase of this situation. Why was Chambers not called before the federal grand jury in New York during the first year of its existence? Why did not the attorney general have him subpoenaed? And what about Elizabeth Bentley? Does she have documents and microfilms?

* * *

THERE ARE A FEW more matters that need to be cleared and Alger Hiss owes it to his country to make some of them clear. In 1934, Harold Ware, the son of Mother Bloor, a notorious American Communist, came to this country from Moscow and organized a cell of 10 members, mostly graduates of the Harvard Law school. This cell was so organized that each member created a cell of his own until thousands were involved. These men were appointed to key positions in the government. They became counsel to congressional committees and secretaries to members of congress. They overran "sensitive" positions in the state department. The war and navy departments, the OSS, the OWI, the OPA, UNRRA, in particular, became their field. We need to know all about that if it is not to happen that way again. Chambers opened the door; let's see what is inside.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

With the Microfilm Inside

(After James Whitcomb Riley)

The ... something ... party-like about the atmosphere
When the reaping of corn are over and the chilly days are here—
Of course we miss the pictures of the bathing girls and such
And the crowds at the beaches with the little tabloid touch.
But the ... humor and the landscape trimmed up in the haze
Of a crisp and sunny morning of the early autumn days
Brings a whoopin' old sensation raisin' ayeh by fair and side
When the frost is on the punkin and the microfilms inside

II

The ... tassels of the tassels of the corn
And the rustle of the yangled leaves as golden as the morn—
The stubble in the furrows kindo lonesome-like and still
And the critters hibernatin' in the farmhouse on the hill—
The footsteps in the dry leaves out behind the big red barn
The flashlights there a-flashin' for a big newspaper yarn—
O, it sets my heart a-chickin' and my eyes they ripen wide
When the frost is on the punkin and the microfilms inside

III

Then your apples is gathered and the ones a feller keeps
Is poured around the cellar floor in red and yeller heaps.
And your cider-makin's over and you hear the hoot owl moan
And the wife says, "Some committee is a-callin on the phone".
And the correspondents scramble in and bust down ev'ry fence
That already ain't been busted by investigatin' gents.
O, it makes for tall excitement and the type gets black and wide
When the frost is on the punkin and the microfilm's inside.

IV

When the frost is on the punkin and the microfilm's inside
And you hear the presses roarin' and the Reds all run and hide
And the house committee gathers and Dick Nixon youthfully
Does some skilful acrobatics twixt a ship and plane at sea;
And the cry "Red herring" softens and the people say "bigosh.
It don't look like all the probin' was a lot of silly bosh"—
Then a feller yells, "What's doin'?" as the hair stands on his hide
When the frost is on the punkin and the spy stuff is inside.

ALL DONE BY MIRRORS

Budapest—"American women delegates to the conference of the Women's International Democratic Federation, a UN affiliated body, are on the speakers' list and painting the United States as a police-terrorized state. Mrs. Muriel Draper of New York, declared the Attorney General of the United States 'notorious' and said members of her organization are being dragged before investigating committees, threatened with prison and deportation and generally subjected to intimidation. 'Hostility to the Soviet Union,' she said, 'is being initiated by the reactionary elements in Washington and helped by the monopoly press, radio and screen'."

* * *

How about staying over in Budapest where things are so cozy, lady?

The deer hunting season is over and a lot of folks now feeling like venturing outdoors again. We like the observation of John Gould, the Lisbon Maine philosopher: "Personally, I don't hunt deer. I look too much like a deer to a lot of people who carry guns, it seems.

We'd feel more hopeful about the Russian crisis if we heard that Stalin, Molotov and Vishinsky had taking up ski jumping for the winter.

We can't understand the reported coolness to Mme. Chiang Kai-shek on the ground that she is here after some money. It must be that all she asks is a trivial sum and we feel insulted.

Hair Splitting

By Truman Twill

A recent review of hair styles for women showed changes since World War I and came up with the astonishing conclusion that there is some connection between the way the girls arrange their curls and the mood of the times.

When youth was flaming during the early twenties there was the shaved neck and the straight bob. At other times the girls showed what was going on in their minds by adopting the wind-swept bob, the shoulder-length bob, the up-swept bob, the page-boy bob and so on.

When the boys came home after World War II, the girls greeted them with soft, demure curls, and now that the boys are going away again the hair-do reflects the spirit of the occasion by being halfway between short and long, not too curly and not too straight—well, anyway, hard to leave.

All of this nonsense because women have no more to say about their coiffures than they do about the length of their skirts, or the heft of their shoulder pads. They are like putty in the nimble fingers of a crew of smoothies who make a good living thinking up ways of doing hair which are too complicated for any woman to handle by herself. If these slickers handed down a decree that starting tomorrow morning all women should shave their heads and wear festoons of cooked spaghetti with grated cheese on top that would be the style. And it would have no more to do with the mood of the times than the length of Aunt Minnie's winter longies.

This is one more bit of proof that women have no more independence than sheep ticks, while men will tolerate no dictation whatever about the way they do their hair or anything else concerning their personal appearance. Take the matter of the male hair-do.

Some men get by nicely with no hair at all. Others wear it down to their collars. They can get by with a 6's bowl clip, leaving them looking like Mohican Indians with a scalp lock. Or they can have their hair cut grass length all over. They can go in for fright-wig styling, if that's their mood, or they can plaster their hair down like Valentino in the sinister style of the gigolo era. They can wear it off the forehead or over the eyes like a sheepdog. They can look new-mown or wind-blown; it's no one's business but theirs.

When they park themselves in a barber chair, they tell the barber what they want and no nonsense. Any barber who suggested a new style to a male customer would be stabbed to death with his own scissors—and what would happen to him if he suggested soft ringlets wouldn't bear description in a newspaper intended for the entire family.

As for the female hair-do showing the mood of the times, that's nonsense. Unless, of course, the mood of the times is one of subservience to dictation, which is what women are guilty of in the matter of the coiffure.

CHEMICAL CHANGES DARK SKIN WHITE

By The United Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 10—A chemical which can change the color of the human skin and accidentally turned several hundred Negro workmen partly white was described at a meeting of skin specialists here, a spokesman said today.

The strange action of the chemical was described by Dr. Louis Schwartz, director of the dermatological division of the U. S. public health service, at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Dermatology and Syphilogy, a spokesman for the academy said.

The chemical is monobenzyl ether of hydroquinone, a synthetic tar product, which is able to block the progress of coloring matter to the outer surface of the skin, Schwartz said.

He considers the chemical's action a serious dermatological condition, which might be dangerous, and cautioned against anyone attempting to change the color of the skin.

He said the chemical's effects were discovered during the war when several hundred Negroes turned white in about 30 days wherever the chemical touched them, usually on the arms and hands, he said.

Schwartz was called in by the government to investigate and helped develop salves which were used as preventives. The chemical was used in synthetic rubber plants to prevent damage by oxygen in manufacture of rubber products.

Many of the Negroes whose arms or other parts of the body turned white receive cash payments in out-of-court settlements of claims that they suffered loss of social position among their race, Schwartz said.

Their Future is in the Balance

Meat animals are what they eat! It takes a balanced ration to keep them healthy, growing and gaining. Successful livestock men know this. Hundreds of controlled feeding experiments prove it. Morrison, the great feeding authority, states—"Lambs on unbalanced rations require 46% more corn and 15% more hay for each 100 pounds of gain!"

Balanced rations for hogs show spectacular results. Anyone can make a lot of fat and a little lean with corn and water. But that's the slow, expensive way. It takes a pile of corn to do it. But with corn balanced with proteins and minerals and vitamins hogs can be fed to market weights in six months or less. Think of the corn you can save—11 bushels of corn alone will make 100 pounds of pork, but only 6½ bushels of corn plus 35 pounds of protein supplement will do the same job faster.

Scores of feeding trials prove that a balanced ration pays with steers and lambs, whether on the range or in the feedlot. In fact, the same basic principle applies to all livestock and poultry. Forage and other homegrown feeds, properly balanced with proteins and minerals, make more and better meat pounds at less cost.

Continuous research affords new and exciting means of using available materials in improved rations for livestock. At first, tankage alone was used to add protein to hog rations. It did a good job. Then research proved that a combination of proteins is better than one kind alone. A mixture of tankage, soybean meal, linseed meal and, in some areas, cottonseed meal, produces better quality pork even faster. This improvement in rations makes for more efficient and economical use of proteins. But what about vitamins and minerals? Here, too, many advancements in techniques of supplying these nutrients have been made. Dehydrated alfalfa, milk solids, vitamin oils, and some synthetic sources provide essential vitamins and other factors. Mineral balance is necessary, too. Salt, the universal need, supplies sodium and chlorine. Steamed bone meal supplies calcium and phosphorus, and other major minerals. With these, alert research men now are combining other known essential elements, such as cobalt, manganese, iron, iodine, copper, and magnesium, to turn slow gainers into fast gainers.

How good are you kids at knowing the names of the animals used to help you play games?

In baseball, what part of a steer do you wear? Why, the glove has a padding that's made from its hair!

In what game would you say the pug best fits in? Yes, football, that's right—the ball's called a "pigskin"!

And the last time you walloped a tennis ball—wham! Did you know that the racket strings came from a—lamb?

By-products that meat packers save every day increase livestock values, make stockmen more pay.

BAKED HAM SLICE

A phosphorus supplement fed to ewes in amounts to satisfy their requirements would increase their vitality, help maintain their weight during the winter, and increase the percentage lamb crop.

First Calves Forecast Production

by Marvin Koger,
Animal Husbandman
New Mexico A. & M. Experiment Station

Marvin Koger

Want to estimate efficiency of calf production in your cow herd? The cow's first calf tells more than her good looks. In a New Mexico study, we took the weaning weights of first calves weaned by three-year-old cows. These weights were compared with the weaning weights of calves raised by these same cows in the next four years. Cows and calves were placed in five groups (according to the weaning weight of first calves). Here's the 5-year record:

Groups	Average First Calf Weight From 3-Year-Old Cows	Average Calf Weights From Same Cows for Next 4 Years
Group 1	321 pounds	404 pounds
Group 2	349 pounds	417 pounds
Group 3	383 pounds	430 pounds
Group 4	409 pounds	443 pounds
Group 5	441 pounds	456 pounds

Considering only the two extremes, Group One and Group Five, it was shown that breeding stock picked from Group One could be expected to produce, for the next four years, calves that had a yearly average weaning weight of only 404 pounds. But those picked from Group Five should produce calves with a yearly average weaning weight of 456 pounds, 52 pounds more than Group One.

These figures show that later calves are apt to be a repeat performance of the cow's first calf. Cows doing poorly their first calving year continued to produce the lightest group of calves. They were poor risks. Culling cows with light, scrubby first calves would be well repaid in greater profit through more efficient production.

If you would like a full report on this experiment, write to New Mexico A. & M. Experiment Station, State College, N. M.

"It takes a big tractor to pull a heavy-duty plow"

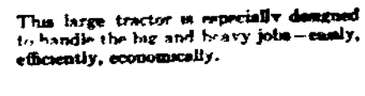
This large tractor is especially designed to handle the big and heavy jobs—easily, efficiently, economically.



This little tractor is good when used for its proper purposes. But it is not built to pull such a heavy plow.

It's the same way with business, including the meat-packing business. There's need for all kinds and sizes of packing plants—large ones as well as small ones. Two-thirds of the livestock is produced west of the Mississippi River. Two-thirds of the meat is eaten east of it. Bringing meat and meat-eaters together is a big job!

That's where the "big tractor" proves its worth. The country needs nation-wide meat packers like Swift & Company. For with processing plants located where most of the livestock is raised, we can help bridge the gap between western range and feedlots and the kitchen range. It is an important job, filling the vital needs of producers and consumers. As we have served them over the years, we have grown. And as we have grown, so also our ability to serve has grown.

SAYS OHIO NEEDS BIGGER, BUSIER BEES

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10—Help wanted: bigger and busier bees.

More honey makers are needed—their keepers say—to fill the depleted ranks of other pollen carriers destroyed by some new fangled farming ideas.

Bee experts attending the Ohio State Beekeepers' association meeting said today modern farming techniques have nature's pollen spreading slowed to a near standstill.

"New types of bug-killers are destroying masses of insects which normally act as pollen carriers," explained Charles A. Reese, Ohio State university extension apiarist.

"Modern cultivation methods are doing the same thing. Plows leave few inches of land untilled these days and insects are dying out for lack of a place to live."

The cheapest way to revive pollinating, Reese said, is to use honey bees. "They're still the best pollinators going," he observed, "and a farmer can shift them around from one place to another as they're needed."

Large-scale use of insecticides can spell disaster for honey bees just as for other insects, however.

"In some places in the United States whole areas of bees have been wiped out by arsenic dusting from airplanes and similar types of spray," Reese said.

"In Ohio the situation hasn't become too serious, but it easily could."

Elks Complete Plans For Dinner Saturday

Plans were made for entering the lodge bowling teams in the district tournament to be held at Wooster and also the state tournament at Akron later in the season.

Tucker Dealers To Help Finance Firm

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Dec. 10—A factory representatives of the Tucker Corp. told dealers last night they "can have all the cars they want" within 60 days if the company's financial difficulties are removed.

The statement came from W. J. Johnson of Chicago as he outlined a nationwide program to raise an additional $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 by Dec. 22.

Forty dealers from Ohio and southern Michigan who heard Johnson agreed to help raise the funds.

The dealers discussed a report that James D. Mooney, president of Willys-Overland Co., might head a Tucker reorganization.

N. C. Farber, a Columbus dealer, said the dealers were told "Tucker has said many times that he would be willing to step out as president and become chairman of the board if such a move would help the company."

FIRM BUILDING GIANT NEW ATOM-SMASHER

By The United Press

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 10—Westinghouse Electric Corp. announced today that it is building equipment to carry a 6,000,000,000 electron-volt "knockout punch" into the world's most powerful atom smasher.

The electrical apparatus, valued at $1,000,000, will be installed on the $9,000,000 "racetrack" atom smasher to be built on the campus of the University of California. The new atom-buster will be 10 times more powerful than the university's present cyclotron—the largest currently in existence.

Westinghouse said it will build the heart and nerve center of the cyclotron known as a betatron. The betatron will consist of two alternating current motor-generator sets ignitrons to change alternating into direct current electricity, and a network of controls and meters to channel the power into a giant 10,000-ton circular steel magnet, the announcement said.

Westinghouse said the university's new atom-smasher may enable scientists to decide what holds the atom's nucleus together and whether matter can be created from energy. These studies the company said will give scientists more knowledge into the uncharted realm of cosmic rays.
